DUCE, FRANCO IN SECRET TALK

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 12 (AP)—Premier Mussolini conferred today with Spain's top-ranking leaders "somewhere in Italy," foreign diplomats reported, and tomorrow the Spaniards will meet with French Chief of State Petain and his No. 1 lieutenant, Admiral Jean Darlan.

The heavily-guarded travels of the Spanish generalissimo, Francisco Franco, and his brother-in-law, Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner, held the probability of a startling turn in the European war.

But what was afoot was still conjectural, with the conjecture ranging from peace efforts on behalf of Italy to the other extreme of solidification of Axis strength in Europe through acquisition of Spanish and French bases for operations against Britain in the Mediterranean.

The possibility that Mussolini actually sought dispatch of a Spanish legion to one of Italy's warfronts was advanced by British diplomatic sources in London.

A Berlin spokesman held that the Franco-Mussolini meeting was "none of our affair," but laughed at the suggestion that a British-Italian peace proposal was in the air.—Editor's Note.

Some reports pictured the Spaniards as reluctant to return the favor of Axis help given to Franco in the Spanish civil war. Franco's reluctance to yield bases has long been discussed.

PETAIN ON WAY

The old marshal of Vichy, Philippe Petain, arrived at Cagnes, France, near the Italian frontier, on his special train and Navy Minister Darlan was reported to have left Vichy by automobile to join him for talks tomorrow with Franco and Serrano Suner.

Franco and Serrano Suner were said to have crossed into Italy late yesterday after a trip across southern France in a 20-automobile procession.

HEAVY POLICE GUARD

The Spanish automobile caravan was protected heavily by motor cycle police as it went through Montpellier, Marseille and Nice late yesterday afternoon.

Some observers said the painstaking safeguards were taken because a large number of Spanish Republicans had taken refuge in southern France.

Diplomatic observers still were guessing the exact subject of the Franco-Mussolini talks. Beliefs most widely expressed were:

1—Mussolini was seeking Spain's active help in the western Mediterranean to help wrest the offensive from Britain.

2—Franco, as head of one large Catholic nation, may be hoping to join his efforts with those of Pope Pius XII to facilitate an end to the war.

It was reported here that Franco probably would have an audience with the Pope.

400,000 MORE NAZI TROOPS IN RUMANIA

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Adolf Hitler has moved 25 new divisions of some 400,000 men into Rumania in recent weeks to reinforce his Balkan command in Rumania, military observers reported today, as war-like preparations moved apace throughout southeastern Europe.

These informants said an average of 40 trains a day have been passing through Hungary, carrying great quantities of munitions, tanks, guns and other military equipment as well as men.

Neutral military observers estimate Germany now has between 500,000 and 600,000 men in Rumania, nearly 200,000 having entered the country from the time the first contingents arrived in September and the end of December, when the present mass movement began.

Balkan tension heightened with attention focused on the Rumanian-Bulgarian frontier, where the Germans are reported to have massed troops on the northern bank of the Danube.

Dispatches from Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, published today in pro-Axis newspapers in other Balkan centers said Bulgaria "fears England is about to violate her neutrality, thus dragging Bulgaria into the war by sending RAF planes over the country to bomb Rumanian oil fields.

The Turkish official press pleaded for a united Balkan front against a German move across Bulgaria to help Italy's embattled forces against Greece.

Rumania's anti-aircraft defenses and air raid protection measures were speeded up by German and Rumanian military authorities, reports from Bucharest said.

Observers at Ruse, Bulgarian port on the Danube, reported that the German troops on the north bank still were busily building pontoon bridges and assembling military supplies near prospective jumpoff points leading into Bulgaria.

In the movement of fresh Nazi divisions across Hungary, competent observers said, much equipment, especially motor vehicles of French types, has been carried on French freight cars.

U.S. Army Wives Quitting Manila

MANILA, Feb. 12 (AP)—A surprise evacuation of U. S. Army wives and children from Manila was reported today by reliable sources to be imminent.

Although high Army officials declared no evacuation order had been issued, unimpeachable quarters disclosed between 300 and 400 wives and children of officers were preparing to board the Army transports Etolin, now in port, and Grant, due later.

These sources said wives and children not due to return to the United States for some time were getting ready to leave.

British Find 86 Unserviceable Axis Planes

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 12 (AP)—RAF headquarters reported tonight that British land forces had found 86 unserviceable Italian and German planes on the landing ground at Benina, Libyan port near Bengasi.

WENDELL WILLKIE AT LEASE-LEND HEARING

TESTIFYING—Wendell L. Willkie, defeated G. O. P. candidate for President, back from inspection tour of shattered Britain, appears before Senate foreign relations committee hearing on Lease-Lend Aid bill, calls on America to give Britain from five to 10 destroyers a month, more and more munitons and other help.

No More Destroyers To Give, Knox Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (INS)—Secretary of Navy Knox today took sharp issue with a suggestion by Wendell L. Willkie that this country turn over to the British five or ten destroyers a month.

Far from contemplating any further depletion of United States naval forces, Knox said he plans to speed destroyer production "for the use of our own fleet."

Asked at his press conference if the United States had destroyers to spare as suggested by the 1940 GOP presidential candidate before the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday, Knox said hotly:

"We certainly have not. We haven't any more to spare if we are to have a balanced fleet. I have expressed myself very vigorously on that."

Knox said there were absolutely no requests pending from the British "for anything from our fleet."

BUILDING TIME CUT

Knox was asked if, as more destroyers are built, this country might then be able to transfer some and still have a balanced fleet.

"As we build more destroyers we will also be building more of other ships," he replied.

"Do you think it is safer for us to keep a balanced fleet than to help the British?" he was asked.

"I won't comment directly on Mr. Willkie's testimony," he answered.

"I just want to say that as Secretary of the Navy my position is against depleting our own fleet any further."

Knox said this country already is "using every possible yard and way available for our own construction program." He saidthe time of constructing destroyers has been reduced from 18 months to 10 months.

"And the ships will be for our own use?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

In general, Knox said, the Navy shipbuilding program was from 30 days to eight months ahead of schedule.

FD URGES SPEED

According to present building schedules, the United States will add only 15 new destroyers to its fleet during this year and 45 during the next year. If Willkie's suggestion was accepted and from 60 to 120 of the ships were given away this year, the United States would have to cut way into its existing stock of destroyers, Navy experts say.

It is no secret today that President Roosevelt hoped for early passage of the "all out" British aid bill as a result of Willkie's spectac-

Willkie Uncertain, Hesitant in Senate Quiz, Nazis Claim

BERLIN, Feb. 12 (AP)—A German spokesman declared today that Wendell L. Willkie's answers yesterday to United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee questions about the aid-to-Britain bill were "uncertain and hesitant."

The spokesman declined further comment.

7 LEASE LAW CHANGES WIN O. K.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee approved in principle today seven House amendments to the administration's British aid bill, including a $1,300,000,000 limitation on the amount of existing war material which could be transferred to other nations.

The amendments had been put forward in the House by proponents of British aid legislation and were reported to be acceptable to the Administration leadership in Congress.

While approving them in principle—that is, subject to some technical changes in language—the foreign relations committee turned back opposition efforts to write into the legislation restrictions considered undesirable by the Administration.

In addition to the seven amendments which it approved, the committee also agreed to accept another House amendment providing that Congress could revoke the President's proposed British aid powers at any time by a concurrent resolution which would not be subject to presidential veto.

'Red Hans' Named By Kerensky as Killer of Krivitsky

From the lips of Alexander Kerensky, the man who freed Russia from rule by the Czars and became its first post-war chief, today came the declaration that Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky died a victim of Dictator Stalin's assassins.

The one-time Russian leader outlined OGPU methods of "hounded death" and even named the "killer" in an interview in New York.

Kerensky, speaking guardedly, said that an assassin known as "Red Hans" had been hounding Krivitsky since Christmas and joined with Rep. Martin Dies in declaring the death was ordered from the Kremlin.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that the death gun—a .38 caliber automatic found beside the general's body, was not the weapon he mentioned in a "suicide" note.

The pistol Krivitsky purchased in Charlottesville, Va., last Thursday was a .32 caliber automatic, the New York Journal-American was informed by Eitel Wolf Dobert, former German army officer and friend of Krivitsky.

Dobert, who lives in a log cabin in the Virginia town, said Krivit-

CROWLEY WIFE JOINS AUNT IN DEATH; JAILED HUSBAND UNRUFFLED

Shot down by her husband after he had killed her aunt, Mrs. Adelaide Crowley, 25, mother of three children, died today at Cambridge City Hospital.

Her husband, John C. Crowley, 26, now under special police guard at Cambridge police headquarters, will be arraigned tomorrow for the two murders.

He maintained a stoic calm as he was told the news of his wife's death.

He had fatally wounded her after invading the Prentiss st., Cambridge, home of her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Querze, 28, and shooting Mrs. Querze dead on the spot.

Crowley was believed by police to have committed the two murders when he was balked in a mad attempt to win back the love of his estranged wife.

I LEFT HOME THURSDAY

Last Thursday, she left their Norfolk st. home to live with her aunt. On Monday, he begged her to return to him, but she refused. He created such a disturbance that police were called. His wife said at that time she would not return to him because of his drinking habits.

Last night, he returned on the same errand with a revolver in his pocket.

When his wife refused to listen to him, he fired a shot at the aunt, whom he blamed for keeping them apart.

As his wife started to run, he fired two shots at her. Then he again turned his gun on the aunt, police say.

Mrs. Crowley, mortally wounded, dragged herself up two flights of stairs to a neighbor's apartment. She collapsed there as the neighbors called police.

FOUND IN WILMINGTON

Meanwhile, Mrs. Cowley's brother, Walter Lennox, asleep in his bedroom, was aroused by the sound of shots. He rushed out to see his brother-in-law with the revolver still smoking in his hand.

"I grappled with Crowley and he finaly gave in and said, 'Here's the gun. I shot her. They're both done for,'" Lennox said.

He said that Crowley, apparently stricken with remorse, asked him to "Shoot me between the eyes."

Then Crowley fled, boarded a train at North Station, leaped from it at Wilmington and was captured and turned over to police by the engineer of a freight train.

Mrs. Crowley died from two wounds hours later at Cambridge City Hospital despite several blood transfusions.

Police said that when Crowley was arrested he was befuddled by liquor.

U. S. Subs Hold Tests Off Provincetown

The submarines will operate submerged on both the outer and inner standardization courses for about four days. The Navy advised shipping to keep a lookout for periscopes.

"I'M GOING TO LOSE 20 POUNDS"

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

I wouldn't have believed it possible, honestly. I can still hardly credit my own senses.

Because yesterday I went shopping and LIKED it! I actually enjoyed trying on one dress after another, which used to be my idea of something a little less painful than a kick in the shins.

Before I go into that subject, however, be it known that after my exercises, my session in the hot-box and my pummelling, I weighed in at 113.

That's 2 pounds less than I weighed Monday morning and leaves me only 4 pounds to lose. It doesn't seem possible that I weighed 129 less than four weeks ago!

I sincerely wish that everyone who reads this series could have known me before I started this campaign and could see the difference, not only in my figure, but in my face and health. My friends and office colleagues gape at me as if I were a miracle!

"You look so much younger!" is what I hear on all sides.

That's one of those back-handed compliments. I'm beginning to suspect that a month ago I must have looked like a refugee from the first World War.

Some of the alarmists . . . mostly overweights . . . still say, sort of hopefully, "Don't you feel weak? Are you really getting enough nourishment?" But even they admit that I look the picture of health.

Actually, I have never felt so well. I was always healthy and happy, but on the lethargic side. Now I have oodles of energy.

On Sunday, at home with my family, I heard my Dad reporting:

"I think this reducing has affected her mind. She hasn't sat down all day. And do you know what she's doing now . . . washing dishes!"

I don't think I had helped with the dishes since

DOROTHY CULKIN of the Record-American accounting department gives Mary X. Sullivan a hand in shortening her new dress . . . size 11. Mary's streamlined now.

Heighho! It's Almost Over

That seems to be the nice thing about this weight reduction—it not only decreases poundage but increases ambition and joie de vivre (French)—that is, judging from Mary's raptures it does. Mary X. has only four pounds to go. A pittance. We'll be kind of sorry to see her end this. She won't seem like the same old Mary.

Dad Joins Twins, Wife, As Patient in Hospital

There's been a temporary change of address for a young Atlantic couple, a family reunion, of all places, at Quincy City Hospital.

Saturday night, Anna H. Walsh, of Newbury st., Atlantic, was taken to the hospital where she gave birth to twin boys, born an hour apart, and weighing four pounds each.

Her husband, Francis Walsh, was found unconscious on the floor of his apartment early today by a neighbor who had detected smoke. Walsh, a postal worker, was taken to Quincy Hospital to be hospitalized near his wife and newborn twins.

None of the Walshs have seen each other in the hospital, for the twins will remain in an incubator for a few days, and Walsh will not be able to see his wife until he is fully recuperated from inhalation of smoke and fumes, which police said were from a heater.

"Of course we'll be glad to get home and be together," Walsh saiad "but this hospital reunion has really been a happy one. It gave me the life of my only children and saved my own."

Walsh was rescued by Thomas Ross, 27, a Fore River work, who occupies the adjoining top floor apartment. He dragged Walsh to the hall and tried first aid, then ran to a nearby bakery and notified police. Sergt. Seppala and other officers took Walsh to the hospital.

FIN COM SEES HUB FINANCIAL SCENE BETTER, BUT URGES IMPROVEMENTS

Boston was pictured as financially on the upgrade today—but with plenty of room for improvement—in the annual Finance Commission report to the Legislature.

The commission, watching over finances and department abuses, definitely saw a ray of hope for the future, but pointed out many drastic changes which must be put into effect to bring sounder municipal administration.

Among the matters studied during the year 1940 were those of city debt, the Sumner tunnel, the Meridian st. bridge, the county institutions, the water department, the police department and city laundering.

CITY DEBT DOWN

The report was signed by Chairman Charles M. Storey, James E. Maguire, David Lasker, James H. Flanagan and Elias F. Shamon.

Of city debt, the commission declared that continued improvement was shown in 1940.

Net obligations on Dec. 31 were almost $6,000,000 less than on the corresponding date in 1939. The net debt burden the city now is carrying is $8,000,000 less than when the peak was reached in 1933, although the wealth of the city—expressed in assessments on taxable property—has decreased $300,000,000.

In 1940, the city retired bonded debt in the amount of $9,906,000. Coming due this year is $9,558,000 additional.

In the matter of the Sumner tunnel, long troublesome to taxpayers, the commission reported that for the fourth successive year there was a deficit drop.

The deficit in 1940 was $305,525. The figures for other years were $365,045 in 1939, $437,808 in 1938, $453,479 in 1937.

RIGID DRIVE

The city also showed gains in tax collections on real estate and personal property, with 79.5 per cent collected on Dec. 31. Although the commission feels that 85 per cent should be in the city treasury by that date, that figure seldom has been approached. In 1939 but 77.1 per cent was collected; in 1938, 77.4; in 1937, 72.3.

It was also pointed out that the increased figure of 1940 would have been greatly jumped had the city been able to get the assessments levied on the South Station property, a matter now in litigation.

Receipts for water service were greater than the cost of the supply, but this gain was seen by members as resulting for a rigid drive to collect back taxes from delinquents, some of whom were four years in arrears. The water department surplus for 1940 was $418,454.34.

Total maintenance cost of city departments, exclusive of the school department were higher by $600,000 than in any year of the present administration of Mayor Tobin, and higher by $1,600,000 than in the last year of Mayor Mansfield's term.

The increase was charged up to increased institution costs and the old bugaboo, welfare. It was shown that these costs still were rising.

Maintenance of schools continued a decline, showing four per cent less expenditures than in 1939. A total of $16,738,229 was spent. The commission pointed out, however, that while costs dropped four per cent, school enrollment dropped eight per cent.

FAILED IN TEST

Snow removal forces and equipment of the city again were censured by the commission. Members declared that in the storm of St. Valentine's Day, 1940, the city on the whole had failed to meet the test.

Despite new equipment, clearance was unnecessarily slow and its cost unwarrantedly high. They said that for the first time in decades business was virtually forced to suspend for 24 hours after snow ceased falling. It was pointed out that the storm was the greatest since 1898, but that the departments were unprepared to meet it.

The commission pointed out that for three years, it had recommended an inventory system and that nothing had been done about it. Members said that despite the fact that the city buys millions of dollars worth of supplies every year there is no inventory system. Such a system, it was reported, would cost $100,000 and Federal funds are believed in the offing for such a project.

It was recommended that the City Hospital laundry plant be used to do all the city's laundry work, save that at Deer Island and Long Island, at a saving of $110,000 yearly.

DEMAND REDUCTION

The commission also called attention to its recent criticism of the police department. Demand was made for cost reductions and recommendations made that it might be better if the department have fewer officers and more men.

One other matter was that of the Meridian st. bridge, ordered rebuilt by the war department in a plan which would cost the city $3,000,000. No action has been yet taken by city authorities and unless this offer and recommendation is taken up the city may have to do the work later at a cost of "millions."

The commission announced that a year-long study of the Boston Elevated soon would be made public.

A report by the fin. com. on Suffolk County correctional scandals—chiefly that at Charles st. jail and in the courthouse—was only referred to briefly. Members said the report they made simply was submitted by Gov. Saltonstall to the legislature and that nothing more was done about it.

500,000 Still Missing From Paris Homes

PARIS (via Berlin), Feb. 6 (Delayed) (AP)—Approximately 500,000 residents of Paris and the vicinity still are missing from their homes as an aftermath of the war, Charles Magny, prefect of the Seine district, said today.

Magny said it was impossible to determine how many of this number were dead, but he estimated that about 200,000 are prisoners of war.

WED IN PERU—The elopement and marriage of Constance Winant, 20-year-old daughter of the newly appointed ambassador to Britain, and Carlos Valando, 22-year-old Peruvian, was revealed today. They eloped Sunday and were married at Chincha, near Lima, Peru.

Boston Honors Lincoln On 102d Anniversary

Through song, prayer and solemn tribute, Greater Boston, rich in the history of America's struggle for freedom, rededicated itself today to the principles of democracy for which Abe Lincoln fought.

Celebrating the 132d anniversary of the birth of the Great Emancipator, officials and citizens, headed by Mayor Tobin, converged in Park sq. to place a wreath at Lincoln's statue.

Under the city's program, another wreath was scheduled to be placed at the statue of Thaddeus Kosciusko, Polish patriot, whose natal anniversary also falls today.

From all New England, visitors were making the annual pilgrimage to the Lincoln log cabin of Mary Bowditch Forbes on Adams st., Milton—a reproduction of Lincoln's humble birthplace.

While all schools held appropriate exercises, Gov. Saltonstall, U. S. Senator Ralph Brewster of Maine and Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell planned to address the Middlesex Club at its annual Lincoln Day dinner in the Hotel Statler at 6:30 p. m.

Congregation Adath Jeshurun will hold special Lincoln service Friday at 8:15 p. m. at its Blue Hill ave. synagogue with Atty.-Gen. Bushnell and Rabbi Chaim Goldin as speakers.

POLICE WIN GUN BATTLE

JOS. MORTICELLI B. T. McCABE WM. McCARTHY

McCABE, NEAR DEATH, IS WHEELED INTO CITY HOSPITAL ON STRETCHER
Two Bandit Suspects Captured by Officer After Wild Gun Battle

Boston Evening American Photos

DETECTIVE SHOOTS MAN, CAPTURES ANOTHER IN ROUGH AND TUMBLE

Climaxing a wild rough and tumble battle in a Hemenway st., Back Bay, apartment house, one man was shot today by a policeman, a second man was captured by the same officer and a third escaped.

The man who got away was armed with a gun, Detective William J. McCarthy of police headquarters declared as he made his report at the detective bureau, himself considerably battered.

At City Hospital, in a serious condition with two bullet wounds, one in the abdomen, was a man giving his name as Bernard T. McCabe, 32, of the Hemenway st. address.

Locked up at Back Bay station on suspicion of drugstore burglaries was the second captive, giving his name as Joseph P. Morticelli of Perch st., Roxbury, although previously designated by his two companions as "Joe Russo."

SOUGHT BURGLAR SUSPECTS

For some time, Detective McCarthy, with Lieut. James V. Crowley and Detectives William Philbrick and Thomas Conaty, all of headquarters, have been attempting to snare a gang of drugstore burglars working throughout Greater Boston.

Yesterday this group of officers, after watching a fourth floor apartment of the house, took into custody two men who were booked as suspicious persons under the names Reuben F. Needles, 24, of the Hemenway st. apartment, and Guy T. Messia, 24, of Bower pk., Roxbury.

Today, on his way to police headquarters, Detective McCarthy decided to call again at the apartment and see if he could pick up another wanted man, one known, according to the officer, as "Joe Russo."

ATTACK DETECTIVE

"I knocked at the door," said McCarthy afterwards at headquarters, "and somebody responded, 'Who's there?' I identified myself as a police officer. The fellow inside opened the door and said, 'What do you want?'

"I said, 'I want to talk to Joe Russo.' He opened the door wider and let me in and then I saw there were three men. I said, 'Which is Russo?' McCabe pointed to the man who says he is Morticelli.

"Then I approached Morticelli, or Russo, whichever he may be, and said, 'You are under arrest for suspicion of breaking and entering the Ivy Drug at Park Drive on Dec. 10.'

"There was a telephone in the apartment. I went to the phone and called the detective bureau. I heard Lieut. Crowley's voice. I started to talk to him. Then I said, 'Jim, I guess you'll have to wait a minute.' The three of them had jumped me.

KNOCKED DOWN

"The receiver was left hanging down, off the hook. (At the other end, Lieut. Crowley sensed something wrong, called Detectives Philbrick and Conaty and the three jumped for the scene after tracing the call.)

"I guess I'm not as good as I thought I was. They knocked me down on the floor of the flat. McCabe ran to the fire escape. I jumped out after him. It's only a fire escape that runs outside the windows. It doesn't go to the ground.

"On the fire escape I grabbed McCabe and took him in through another window, into the corridor. As soon as I got there the other two jumped me and McCabe joined them. I was down on the floor, then up again and then down.

"One of them had a gun. He's the fellow who got away. I thought the man with the gun fired a shot, but I may have been wrong. I was pretty busy. I thought I heard one, but others tell me no.

"The man with the gun ran up a short flight of stairs to the roof. I had the other two in my hands, so there wasn't much I could do about that. They rolled me along the corridor. I got one good kick in the face and another in the left leg and I think I must have got one in the back, from the way it feels.

"All this time in the fight I was trying to get my gun out and at this point I finally did get it out of my pocket. I fired and struck McCabe. By this time we had rolled down a short flight of stairs to a landing.

"McCabe was out of the fight. There was only the one man left—Morticelli or Russo. At gunpoint I pushed him back in the apartment. At the same time I assisted McCabe and put him on the bed and called the radio turret.

"About that time, Lieut. Crowley and the other officers came rushing in."

Detective McCarthy, a YD veteran who served overseas with his outfit in all that division's major engagements, insisted that he was all right and that he would remain on duty.

50 Cops' Faces Red; They Got Auto Tags

When they call it a "no-fix" parking drive they make no mistake. Judges, city councilors, legislators and doctors all have found it was just too bad to be caught, but the climax came today when 50 police officers angrily showed up with tags.

The policemen, who usually have no trouble at all in leaving their machines, found it was a different story when Capt. James Sheehan's rookie cops went to work in the area about the First Corps Cadets Armory.

They were attending a compulsory police drill and had driven there in their own cars. When they came out they found the rookies grinning broadly and tagging away briskly.

PLEAS IN VAIN

All pleas for a break from the veteran officers were of no avail. The booking was completely thorough.

In the first week of the "no fix" parking drive, 2324 summonses have been issued out of 4000 courtesy tags distributed to violators.

At the same time it was learned that Police Comm'r Timility had expressed himself to several superior officers of the department as disturbed over the great amount of publicity, particularly that given in advance with regard to specific areas the taggers were to invade.

MUST GET SUMMONS

In the matter of the questioned legality of the pink slips which have been handed personally to erring parkers, police have decided for themselves that a parker must either be handed a summons while he is in the car, or the pink slip must be mailed to the owner if no driver is found with the machine.

It has been declared that such summonses must be mailed under the "owner responsibility" ordinance when no driver is available.

Taxpayers Find It Easy To Shed Tears

A barrage of tear gas, loosed by a scrubwoman's mop, caused the collection division of the state income tax department to work under almost war-time difficulties on the second floor of 40 Court st. today.

Employes and visitors found their eyes streaming as the gas still lingered in the offices, though vigorous efforts to drive it out with open windows and electric fans had been made since 11 o'clock last night when a scrubwoman, cleaning the floor, struck a trigger guard that automatically sets off the gas.

The scrubwoman, uninjured, fled the floor and notified building officials, who opened all windows, set the fans in motion and still were unable to clear the second floor of the penetrating gas.

When the 60 employes of the collection division arrived for work this morning, they found their eyes, noses and throats stinging.

Visitors who came to pay their taxes presumably burst into tears.

No one, however, reported any long-lasting effects from the gas.

Yanked 20 Feet Out of Tree

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12 (AP)—Rudolph Lorenz, 28, was high in a tree, removing limbs that threatened a rooftop. From his waist dangled a rope with which he lowered branches.

The free end of the rope became entangled in an oil truck.

Lorenz was jerked from his perch and crashed 20 feet to the ground, breaking both wrists.

The truck driver couldn't hear his screams! The rope caught in a parked car and snapped in two.

Lorenz' body was a mass of bruises and friction burns but hospital attendants said he would recover.

Police found the truck driver on his route two hours later. He said he did not hear or see Lorenz.

Blind Wife's Balm Suit Row Near Jury

Characterizing the plaintiff's evidence as "the flimsiest sort," Atty. Stephen Bacigalupo made final argument today in Middlesex Superior Court for Miss Helen Mugar of Watertown in the $50,000 alienation suit brought against her by Mrs. Anna E. O'Meara of Somerville.

The defense attorney launched into his summation after Judge Frank J. Donahue had denied a motion for a directed verdict for Miss Mugar, accused by the blind Mrs. O'Meara of stealing the affections of John J. O'Meara of Newtonville.

In his argument, Bacigalupo asserted that "the matter at stake is not so much the $50,00 0as it is the reputaion of Miss Mugar."

CASE NEARS JURY

"This is the flimsiest sort of evidence," he declared, "with which to attempt to blacken the reputation of an unmarried woman. Does she seem the kind of girl who entices and induces and steals?"

Atty. George McLaughlin for Mrs. O'Meara followed with his summation and the jury was expected to have the case before nightfall.

In a late surprise move during the taking of evidence at the trial, plaintiff's counsel put Mrs. Trixie Coombs of Stoneham on the stand.

Mrs. Coombs testified that Mrs. Mugar told her she vacationed in Washington in 1936 and stayed at the Pennsylvania Hotel—that at which Mrs. O'Meara charged her husband and Miss Mugar stayed together.

TELLS OF VACATION

Taking the stand in her own behalf earlier, the defendant herself told the jury that on the occasion in question, Labor Day, 1936, she had taken her vacation in New Jersey and with two other women.

Miss Mugar likewise denied that she had stolen the affections of Mrs. O'Meara's husband.

Nazis Probing New Disorders in Holland

AMSTERDAM (Via Berlin), Feb. 12 (AP)—The official press agency reported today that police were inquiring into disorders which occurred in Amsterdam within the last few days.

From The Hague came a report of the arrest of a leather merchant and several other persons for "a provocative attitude toward German soldiers."

Repeated instances of friction involving Dutch citizens, Dutch Nazis and the German occupying authorities have filtered through from The Netherlands in recent months.

A dispatch from Amsterdam, Nov. 9, described a parade of 5000 black-shirted Dutch Nazis, who proclaimed "the streets belong to us," after bloody clashes with political opponents.

In October more than 100 prominent Netherlanders were arrested by the Germans as a reprisal against the internment of Germans in The Netherlands East Indies.

A collective fine of about $30,000 was levied against a "number" of citizens of The Hague because three German army cars were deliberately damaged, it was reported Jan. 15.

The Universities of Delft and Leyden were closed in November for an indefinite period when students demonstrated against dismissal of Jewish professors.

A nation-wide appeal for calm was made Dec. 11 by the secretary-general of education when books containing speeches and pictures of Queen Wilhelmina were withdrawn from the schools.

Eight days later a military court at Amsterdam condemned two Dutch citizens to die for cutting an army telephone wire.

CHURCHILL SAY U.S. KNOWS WAR AIMS

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today that "there is such common comprehension in the United States" of British war aims that no occasion had arisen to outline them for representatives of the Washington government.

He told the House of Commons that no American representative, to his recollection, had ever broached to him the subject of Britain's aims in war and post-war reconstruction.

His statement replied to a question in the House of Commons by J. H. Martin, Laborite.

Martin asked the Prime Minister to give assurance that before any statement was made outside Britain on peace aims and reconstruction the Government would first inform Parliament.

Replying, Churchill said:

"I certainly can give the House no assurance about statements which may be made about war aims outside this country or indeed inside this country outside the ranks of the government.

Bombs Rip Bremen, Hannover

LONDON, Feb. 12—The great German seaport of Bremen, the industrial city of Hannover and other sections of the northwestern Reich were pounded again by British bombers during the night, the London air ministry announced today.

Military targets in Norway, Denmark and Holland also were attacked.

While the British planes bombed Germany, London experienced a brief air raid alarm last night and German raiders dropped a few bombs on southeastern England.

SENATE COMMITTEE O. K.'S 7 AID LAW AMENDMENTS

however, appointed a sub-committee to redraft this amendment entirely, some members saying they had doubts about the form in which the House had written it.

In addition to this amendment and the $1,300,000,000 limitation on transfers of existing military equipment, the six House changes acted on by the committee were:

To provide that nothing in the bill should permit any American vessel to enter a combat area.

To require the President to report to Congress every 90 days on his operations under the bill.

OPERATION LIMITED

To provide that all contracts executed in carrying out provisions of the legislation should be fulfilled before July 1, 1946.

To limit operation of the British aid bill to the period ending June 30, 1943.

To provide that nothing in the act could be construed to authorize naval escort of convoys.

To require "consultation" between the President and Army and Navy chiefs before transfer of existing military equipment could be ordered by the President.

The amendment reported rejected was a proposal by Senator Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan which would have required certification by the Army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations that equipment was not needed for American defense forces before it could be transferred by the President to any other nation.

No Destroyers To Give---Knox

ular appearance, first before a tightly jammed closing session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and then at a near-midnight call at the White House.

What transpired in the oval room study when the opposing candidates in 1940's unprecedented election got together largely remained "off the record."

On the basis of testimony by Willkie that his observations in London prompted hope that a non-partizan vote would furnish England, among other things, five to ten destroyers a month, White House aides anticipated a curtailed Senate debate. Administration leaders predicted that the bill would reach a final vote by the first of March.

The man who tersely suggested to Sen. Clark (D.) of Missouri that the 1940 election was water over the dam, and that Mr. Roosevelt was now "my President," gave reporters a distinct impression that the session he had last night at the White House was to his liking.

Asked about ability of the United States to make 60 to 120 destroyers a year available to the hard-pressed Britons, Willkie replied:

"We discussed production in Britain and here."

A reporter inquired whether his strong statement in behalf of the bill had been inspired by London officials.

"A better and more accurate statement would be that what I said was a result of my own investigation rather than what the British said," Willkie replied.

NAZI GRIP ON U. S. INDUSTRY FACES PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (INS)—Calling for a nation-wide investigation, Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold today declared that a New York grand jury has uncovered "startling instances" of German control of defense industries and he hinted strongly that "vital military information" is being turned over to foreign companies through patent agreements.

He also charged collusive bidding on defense contracts resulting in "excessive prices."

Testifying before the temporary National Economic Committee, the head of the justice department's anti-trust division said that Federal Grand Juries should be immediately impanelled in New York Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles to probe restraint of trade practices in defense industrise and he called for Congressional legislation to protect military information.

"During the last year we have investigated a number of cases in which patents held by German concerns have been used to restrain the development of defense industries in this country," Arnold said.

"A special problem involved in these cases is the flow of information of military importance to foreign powers.

"These discoveries have raised a problem of adequate safeguards for military information where patents are involved."

Arnold did not name any foreign companies which are obtaining information on military subjects other than to refer to "German concerns." Arnold, however, said that the department has started criminal or civil actions in the aluminum, military optical goods, tungsten carbide, airplane fabric, bentonite and magnesium industries.

Arnold said that "at least 31 industries producing vital war materials are awaiting investigation" on various anti-trus charga.

Grieving Dog Holds Gains

MONTEREY, Cal., Feb. 12 (AP)—Laddie's chances of becoming a gay old dog again improved today as he held gains he made since his reunion with his soldier-master two days ago.

A bedside bulletin from the Army Ceterinary Hospital said the 10-year-old Laddie enjoyed a fair night's sleep and that his condition remained hopeful and improving. He is eating valuntarily and took a few halting steps.

The half starved Airedale almost died of grief when Everett Scott joined the Army, but he has perked up to such an extent since he was brought here by plane from Chanute, Kan., that Army veterinaries believe he has a real chance to recover.

A. LINSCOTT MANNING
Suicide in Kansas

Mrs. Manning To Go for Body Of Suicide Mate

Shocked by news of the suicide of her husband, only a few days after a happy reconciliation, Mrs. Clara Manning 33, of Wellesley today prepared to fly by airplane if necessary to Kansas City, Mo., where A. Linscott Manning, spectacular race track plunger, was found dead.

Except for a notification of the death sent by Kansas City police to the former banker's relatives in Waltham, his grief-stricken wife was given no information concerning the tragedy or notes found in the dead man's hotel room.

Mother of three small children, Mrs. Manning disclosed that recently she decided to drop divorce proceedings against her husband and that he had gone away after visiting her and the children about two weeks ago.

She brought the divorce action in November, charging Manning with cruel and abusive treatment, on his return to Wellesley from a mysterious trip South.

On Sunday night, according to the police, he registered in a Kansas City hotel under the name of Lionel Clark of New York City. It is believed he took his life by swallowing an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Hotel employes, entering his room by means of a pass key, found the body 40 hours later. On the bed, by the victim's side, was an envelope containing $2000 in cash, and $500 more was found in one of his pockets.

Several notes were also discovered, and one of these, police revealed, was addressed to Mrs. Manning.

Miami Calls G-Men In $675,000 Robbery

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12 (INS)—Mysterious disappearance of a fortune—$475,000 in cash and $200,000 in jewels—from the palatial home of Mr. and Mrs. Roe Wells in Miami Beach had the local police so baffled today that they called in G-men for co-operation in solving the case.

The vanishing of the fortune was recorded Tuesday by Mrs. Wells, a former noblewoman, in a manner which detectives concluded in the light of subsequent events was surprisingly casual.

"We haven't figured this case out as yet," said Detective Chief Earl Carpenter of Miami Beach early today. "We can't say what happened to the money or the jewelry, but in my opinon this is not a burglary or a robbery."

In response to a telephone call that there had been a robbery, two detectives were dispatched to the Wells home on exclusive Star island Tuesday. The detectives were amazed at the magnitude of the case when Mrs. Wells and her husband greeted them with talk of a fortune in jewelry in addition to $475,000 in cash having disappeared. They promptly called reinforcements.

$400,000 IN CURRENCY

Detective Chief Carpenter, after an investigation, reported that the money and jewels disappeared in two installments.

First, on Monday, $400,000 in currency vanished from a secret drawer in the dresser in Mrs. Wells' bedroom. She discovered the loss, but did not report to anyone.

She played bridge at the Indian Creek Country Club after learning the money was gone, according to the police.

Tuesday, a leather bag containing the $200,000 in jewels and $75,000 in cash disappeared from its hiding place in a locked clothes closet in her bedroom, she said, the police reported.

Carpenter quoted her as saying she alone had a key to the closet.

It was not until after their Tuesday loss that the police were notified.

INHERITED FORTUNE

Mrs. Wells is about 60. The Wells have homes both in New York and Miami Beach.

Mrs. Wells explained having the fortune in cash on hand by saying she was in lumber business and found it advisable to have a large sum of cash available.

Detective Chief Carpenter said there was no doubt Mrs. Wells had at least $400,000 cash. He knew more than a month ago, he said, that she had $400,000 in a safety deposit box in the First National Bank in Miami but did not learn until he talked with her yesterday that it had been withdrawn.

Terrier Gives Life in Saving Newton Couple

Faithful companion for five years, Prince, a fox terrier-brindle bull, gave his life today in saving his master and mistress when flames swept their home in Commonwealth ave., Newton Center.

John E. Crowley and his wife, Catherine, both 66, were awakened by the scuffling and barking of the terrier around 6 a. m., and found fire from the basement had worked up into the first floor of the two-story brick 1welling.

They made their escape, but Prince refused to leave and could not be reached by firemen. He was found, suffocated, in the kitchen of the Crowley home.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by an overheated furnace and estimated the damage at $3500.

Cackle in Hearse Proves Undoing Of Food Hoarder

PARIS (via Berlin), Feb. 6—(Delayed)—(AP)—Maurice Vasseur, 42, has learned to his sorrow that you can't always count your chickens after they're hatched, either.

Trying to beat regulations prohibiting transportation of food from one department to another without special permit, Vasseur bought a hearse, loaded it with chickens, rabbits, meat and flour and set out from Orleans for Paris.

"Nobody would think of stopping a hearse," he reasoned, and nobody did until it broke down in the little town of Montargis. While Vasseur was making repairs, police heard a cackling, investigated and confiscated the whole cargo.

When Colds Choke You All Up, Cause Coughing

Are coughing spasms keeping you awake at night and making you feel miserable all day? Is your head so filled up that it feels ready to burst? If you have that kind of a cold—if anyone in your family has one—THEN HERE IS WELCOME NEWS!

Right at home you can easily prepare a simple, direct treatment that helps relieve such discomforts.

All you need do is boil some water. Pour it into a bowl while it's steaming. Add a good spoonful of Vicks VapoRub. Then breathe in the steaming medicinal vapors.

With every breath VapoRub's relief-giving medication is carried deep into the breathing passages of the nose, throat and chest. It soothes irritation, eases local congestion in the upper bronchial tubes, helps clear head and throat, quiets coughing.

When you enjoy the results of this medicated vapor treatment you will understand why Vicks VapoRub is used this way in so many homes.

Added relief . . . Rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime—to get the benefit of its soothing medicated vapors and its comforting poultice action while you sleep.

KERENSKY NAMES SPY HE SAYS DROVE KRIVITSKY TO DEATH

sky spent from Thursday until Sunday with him.

Washington police revealed that the actual death gun—the .38—had been traced. They said it had been stolen more than two years ago in Virginia, at a time Krivitsky was being trailed by OGPU agents in France.

In Boston police ran down a report that the gun had been owned in 1937 by Frank McCourt of 34 Hopkins rd., Jamaica Plain, son of a wealthy contractor.

Young McCourt, a Georgetown University graduate, volunteered in the Army and now is stationed at Sixth Army Hdqts., Providence, R. I. Asked concerning the report, McCourt said:

"I never owned a gun in my life. In fact, I haven't been given a revolver since I have been in the Army. I never have signed a registration for firearms and if there is such registration it must have been taken out by someone using my name."

NAMES SLAYER

While Washington police still clung to a theory of suicide, Kerensky even went as far as to name the man sent to the United States to wipe out Krivitsky.

Kerensky said "Red Hans" was Hans Brueser, "the most vicious murderer in all the Soviet."

This was the same name murmured today by the victim's grieving widow.

"Only a month ago my husband was warned that Hans Brueser was in town," she said. "He is the OGPU agent who tried to kill my husband three years ago in Marseille."

Kerensky was mildly critical of Washington police in still officially listing the death as a suicide and more so of the failure of the FBI to protect a man who had given "valuable espionage information."

"Krivitsky was driven to death by threats to capture and torture his family," Kerensky said.

DEPRESSION LIFTED

Kerensky declared Krivitsky's depression lifted for a time after his expose of Stalinist murders in the Saturday Evening Post. But in October, 1940, at a conference they had in Montreal, Krivitsky again was in the doldrums, he said.

"But I do not think Krivitsky killed himself. If he did—it is hard to judge, being so far away—he was forced to it. Notes of suicide? They mean nothing. The OGPU has the cleverest forgers in the world in its pay."

Krivitsky and Kerensky once were enemies. That was when Krivitsky headed Stalin's secret police, whose victim he now seems to have become. They joined forces soon after Krivitsky broke with Stalin in 1937—the year of the worst "blood purge" in the annals of civilization. That was the year Stalin "purified" the Soviet by murdering more than 300,000, including hundreds of his closest friends.

Before they became allied, however, Krivitsky associated himself with Leon Trotsky, whose murder had been ordered and who was executed last year in Mexico.

QUIT TROTSKY

"Krivitsky soon found Trotsky was no better than Stalin and quit him in disgust," said Kerensky.

"We welcomed him. He was sincere in his belief that Russia was being throttled by Stalin. We work for a more democratic regime. That was his passionate aim, too."

During the 1937 "blood bath," said Kernesky, the OGPU made an attempt on his life in Paris. He was warned of it by French government officials and escaped. He may have had Krivitsky to thank for the warning. He never knew.

It was about the time of the purge, Kerensky revealed, that Krivitsky warned Leon Blum, then Premier of France, that Stalin and Hitler had joined secretly in a pact aimed at England and France. Later he told the British.

"There, too, his warnings were given a cold reception. So he decided to come to America."

KNEW MOVEMENTS

The OGPU knew every movement Krivitsky made. He realized he was being shadowed every minute. Kerensky knew it, too.

So close was the surveillance that for his own safety, Kerensky made Krivitsky agree to avoid him in public.

They carried on their association by telephone and through an intermediary whom Kerensky describes as a "mutual confidante."

The premonition of doom showed markedly after Christmas, when Hans Brueser appeared in America, Kerensky said:

"He knew the practices of the OGPU only too well. He had no illusions. There is no doubt in my mind that it was an assassination."

Krivitsky went to Montreal to be able to enter this country legally under the Russian quota. Previously he was here on a visitor's permit, which had been extended several times.

Kerensky believes he may have had some intimation in Montreal of the Kremlin warrant for his murder, because he redoubled his efforts to protect his wife, Tonya, and their young son.

NUMBER WAS UP

"I do not believe any threats were made directly to Mrs. Krivitsky. Only the general would get them," he said.

"Of one thing I am certain," Kerensky said. "Krivitsky knew his number was up the day he learned Hans Brueser was in America."

In Washington authorities leaned toward the theory that Krivitsky killed himself as the alternative to waiting for an hour chosen by Stalin's assassin. But they decided to hold the case open.

This decision was influenced by the insistent claim of Louis Waldman, Krivitsky's attorney in New York City, that the former spy was murdered for his expose of Stalin's activities in America.

Waldman demanded that the FBI investigate the case, but met only silence from that source.

"If Krivitsky could be done away with, either by murder or by being driven to take his own life, how can federal authorities expect co-operation in their fight against the Fifth Column from people of lesser strength than Krivitsky?" he asked.

DIRECT CHALLENGE

"Gen. Krivitsky's death is a direct challenge to our federal government and to the FBI."

Among others who urged action by the FBI were Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, who told an audience in Minneapolis:

"I knew Krivitsky well. He had too much to live for to commit suicide."

Another was Suzanne LaFollette, magazine writer and cousin of Sen. LaFollette. Said she:

"It was murder by the agents of the OGPU. They could have forced him to write suicide notes by threatening his wife and child. I remembered when Trotsky was murdered, Krivitsky told me 'I will be next.'"

In Chicago, Albert Goldman, former attorney for Leon Trotsky, said he was sure Krivitsky was victim of an assassin.

But while these and others of Krivitsky's associates pointed to possible motives for his death, Detective Chief Bernard W. Thompson said he was "more convinced than ever" that Krivitsky took his own life.

DOOR LOCKED

He said ballistics tests showed the empty cartridge found on the floor came from the pistol beside the body. The door of the fifth-floor hotel room had been locked from the inside; there were no signs of a struggle.

A farewell note in Russian, addressed to Krivitsky's wife and son, said.

"It is very difficult, and I want to live very badly, but it is impossible."

In magazine articles and in testimony before the Dies committee, Krivitsky had told of his adventurous career as a member of the Soviet secret police, and of his eventual break with Josef Stalin over the 1937 Russian Army "purge."

He often voiced his fears of Stalin's vengeance, friends recalled.

The sensational death again brought to light intrigues of the OGPU, dread secret police who even hounded Trotsky to death despite his flight to Mexico.

Even a guarded haven there did not save him from Russian vengeance.

When Frank Jackson killed Trotsky, his sweetheart, Sylvia Angeloff, charged that the OGPU hounded Jackson into hacking Trotsky to death with an axe.

Krivitsky's death served only to bring to light the many "self-slayings" when European dictators speak. There have been many in Germany, Russia and in every country of the globe.

ROEHM SLAYING

Most notorious of these was the killing of Capt. Ernest Roehm, trusted head of the Nazi storm troops, which was officially set down as a "suicide." Roehm was supposed to have shot himself while under arrest—the mystery of his death has never been cleared up.

Whether the black clad Nazi troopers at Hitler's command shot their own leader down or forced him to put a revolver to his head, is a question only history can decide.

At the moment, the Krivitsky killing is in the same category.

3 Towns Each With Population of 2 Tie for U. S. Title

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The census bureau decreed a three-way tie today for the "flyweight population championship" of American towns.

Graysonia, Ark., Ophir, Colo., and Eagle Harbor, Md., each reported two residents in the 1940 census.

The competition, open only to incorporated towns, was won a decade ago by Arundel-on-the-Bay, Md., with a single resident, but the Maryland hamlet outgrew its class by reporting eight persons in 1940.

Graysonia won its title the hard way, coming down from a 691 population 10 years ago. Ophir didn't exist then, and Eagle Harbor lost only one of three persons in 1930.

Boy, 15, Who Stole Apple And Got 3 Years, Paroled

WALES CENTER, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—The Swanson family was "tickled pink" today because 15-year-old John R. was home at last from Gretna, La., where he was sentenced last Dec. 20 to three years in prison in connection with stealing an apple.

"The only thing we miss is the Christmas tree we had hoped to save until Jack got back," said the youth's father, John H. Swanson, a stationary engineer.

"It just couldn't last that long," Mrs. Swanson commented, laughingly.

John, a high school senior honor student, disappeared last Sept. 26 after an automobile he had borrowed was found wrecked.

Dec. 20, representing his age as 17, he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a Gretna house, but contended an apple was the only loot. Judge Robert L. Rivarde sentenced him to three years in prison.

Later John, maintaining his real age was 15, said he had feared to tell his correct age lest he be sent to a reform school until he was 21. A birth certificate proved the boy's contention.

The prison sentence was annulled, and Feb. 7 John was paroled for a year in the custody of his mother, who went to Gretna to come home with her son.

List Clues Indicating Murder of Ex-Stalinist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Was Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky murdered and did his "Red Judas" assassin from the OGPU fake the slaying as a suicide?

Here is the evidence pointing to murder, as compiled by a State Department official with whom the General was in frequent contact:

1—A coroner's report said financial difficulties may have been the reason for the "suicide," yet Krivitsky was well off and still had the bulk of $25,000 he received from the Saturday Evening Post for exposing Dictator Stalin's plans.

2—Krivitsky knew a Red agent named Hans Bruesse was on his trail, with instructions to murder him. He was anxious to keep away from industrial centers in this country because "that is where OGPU agents concentrate their operations."

3—Krivitsky was eager to become a citizen of the United States and looked forward to establishing himself as a permanent resident here. He applied for first citizenship papers five weeks ago.

4—He was taking legal steps to change his name to Walter Poref, since the family name was his wife's maiden name.

5—He was negotiating to purchase a farm in Virginia and had just obtained an automobile license in New York, scarcely the act of a man contemplating suicide.

6—He gave warning to J. B. Matthews, chief investigator of the Dies Committee, that any appearance of suicide if he were found dead was not to be believed—that it would be murder.

7—The .38-calibre revolver, with which he was shot in the RIGHT temple, lay on the LEFT side of the body when he was found. The coroner explained a spasmodic muscular reaction might have hurled the gun across the body after the fatal shot was fired.

U. S. WARNED STALIN TO WAR ON HIS ENEMIES IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 With the death of Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky in Washington, following the assassination of Leon Trotsky in Mexico, authorities warned today that America has become the focal center of Stalin's war of extermination against his enemies.

The principal question asked was, "Who is next on the OGPU list?

After the murder of Trotsky his devoted wife, Mme. Natalie Sedova Trotsky, was convinced she would be the next, for their son and many of their intimate friends and relatives had died mysteriously in the years of their exile.

Denials issued in Moscow failed to convince impartial observers that the assassination was an isolated and individual affair, for the trail of crimes of violence spread too far and wide.

Thus, it is widely believed that Juliet Stuart Poyntz, one an outstanding American Communist leader, was lured to a mysterious death by an OGPU agent.

THE RUBENS CASE

And the celebrated Rubens-Robinson passport case, that ended in the execution of Adolph Arnold Rubens in a Russian prison, pointed directly to the OGPU.

The disappearance of Miss Poyntz from the clubhouse of the American Women's Ass'n. on W. 57th st. on June 5, 1937, followed on her defection from Stalinism.

It is generally understood that an OGPU agent got her aboard a freighter in New York harbor; Miss Poyntz died either at sea or at the hands of an executioner in Russia.

In 1937, also ,"Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson" were apprehended in Moscow for traveling on false passports.

SLAYER USED ALIAS

"Mrs. Robinson" was the American-born Ruth Maria Rubens, who had lived with her Latvian-born husband, Alolph Arnold Rubens, at the London Terrace apartments in this city.

She was ultimately liberated; Rubens vanished from Lubyanka prison. He was reported executed by the OGPU.

The man who struck down Trotsky with an axe is Jacques Mornard van den Dreschd, who used the alias of "Frank Jackson" on a Canadian passport he used to get into Mexico.

Until his death 26 hours later, Trotsky was for the greater part of the time unconscious; but he had a brief period of lucidity, in which he dictated with his old-time clarity a statement:

"I am close to death from the blow of a political assassin, who struck me in my room. I struggled with him. He had entered the room to talk about French statistics. He struck me. Please say to our friends: I am sure of the victory of the Fourth International. Go Forward!"

2 THRILLERS ON NEW BILL AT TRANS-LUX

More cold shivers for film fans are promised in the new Peter Lorre show, "The Man Behind the Mask," which is opening at the Trans-Lux today, and likewise in the companion picture, "The Crimson Circle," made from one of the Edgar Wallace stories and featuring June Duprez, Noah Beery and Hugh Wakefield.

Lorre starts off as a seemingly naive immigrant but after he has almost lost his face in a hotel fire he turns into a cold-blooded killer, always taking advantage of the mask he has to wear.

There is a girl, played by Evelyn Keyes, who sympathizes with the brutal wretch and tries to stop him on his terrible path; but it's no use. Other players are Don Beddoe, John Tyrell and George E. Stone.

In the "Crimson Cirlce" film it is a gang, not a lone monster, who deals in murder, like the Murder, Inc., crowd uncovered not so long ago in New York.

CHIN UP!—"The Mad Doctor," who is Basil Rathbone, is only trying to scare the hair off Ellen Drew in the thriller coming to the Paramount and Fenway tomorrow.

Lucky Giant in Film With Muni

Lucky actor is this Laird Cregar, appearing as one of the fur trappers in "Hudson's Bay", the new Paul Muni film opening today at the Keith Memorial. No one in Hollywood had ever heard of the 300-pound six-footer when he made his California stage debut in "Oscar Wilde", and so far as important film folk went his debut left chiefs unexcited. In fact, they paid no attention to it. But studio secretaries who saw Cregar play the part that Robert Morley scored so big a hit in on the Broadway stage began to buzz about the huge player's talent and before long five studios were bidding for his services.

ROUNDUP OF SCREEN, RADIO HEADLINERS ON NEW BILL AT KEITH-BOSTON

Timberg, Betty Wonder Stars

There will be a roundup of headliners from screen and radio on the RKO-Boston stage from tomorrow through Sunday, with Herman Timberg and Tommy and Betty Wonder as the outstanding entertainers. These are the Kidoodlers, of air fame, guests several times on the Fred Allen Hour and on other radio programs and often seen in screen shorts and sometimes only heard in others, as in the Betty Boop cartoons.

Timberg will have attractive Judy Kelly as his partner in "Anything Goes," comedy sketch on the Keith-Boston bill. The Wonders will offer a modern dance routine. Tommy is well remembered for his work in pictures starring Jackie Cooper, and also for his nimble stepping in a Broadway musical, "Two for the Show," which opened in Boston a year ago.

Frank Paris and his marionettes and the Three Arnolds, who have an acrobatic novelty, are other acts.

Screen offerings on this four-day bill are "Dead Man's Shoes," melodrama featuring Leslie Banks and Wilfrid Lawson, and "Riding on a Rainbow," starring Gene Autry

THE GLIDER is Tamara Toumanova, who does this just as well in the Ballet Russe, which comes to the Boston Opera House on next Tuesday.

'Here's Ireland' Starts 6th Week

More than 30,000 people have already enjoyed the film tour of the Emerald Isle at the Fine Arts Theater during the last five weeks.

With interest continuing at high pitch the Fine Arts is announcing a sixth week of Pat Stanton's feature travelogue, "Here Is Ireland."

If your mother or father came from Ireland, chances are that you will see the old homestead as well as a great uncle or two, for it is a leisurely and affectionate record of a trip on which Pat Stanton focused his camera in nearly every locality of the auld sod.

It is rich with the place-names musical and mouthfilling—Ardnacrusha, Lahinch, Croagh Patrick, Tralee, Omagh, Gweedore and Ballybunnion—scenes of the lovely Irish countryside and the folk who inhabit it, from the east coast to the western sea.

Mr. Stanton, it seems, has paused at every village square, every legendary lake or mountain

Valeta Heads Casino Revue

Featured dancers in the new Ed Ryan revue at the Casino Theater are Valeta, who combines Oriental and Hawaiian steps, and Nora Ford, who needs no introduction to Hub burlesque followers. Billy (Bumps) Mack, Charlie Naples, Joe Ross, Eddie Yubel and Eddie Ennis are the funmakers. Bob Rogers, Elinor Walent, Lee Marmon, Ina Lorraine and Fanchon Mayfair are others in the spotlight.

'Victory' at Scollay, Modern on Friday

Joseph Conrad's "Victory," with Fredric March, Betty Field and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, will be the feature attraction at the Scollay and Modern for the week beginning on Friday.

The second feature will be The Aldrich Family in "Life With Henry," starring Jackie Cooper, Boston's own gift to Hollywood, Leila Ernst, Eddie Bracken, Hedda Hopper, Kay Stewart and Fred Nablo Sr.

Next Symphony Concert Feb. 21

The Boston Symphony Orchestra will give its next regular pair of concerts in Symphony Hall a week from next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, Feb. 21-22.

The soloist will be Leonard Shure, who will play the Second Piano Concerto of Brahms in B flat major.

Serge Koussevitzky will introduce to Boston two choral works: The "Folk-Song Symphony" of Roy Harris and the "Chores No. 10" of Villa-Lobos. The Symphony of Roy Harris, completed last year, utilizes popular songs from various parts of this country: "When Johnny Comes Marching Home"; "Oh Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie"; "I'm Goin' Away For to Stay a Little While"; "De Trumpet Sounds It in My Soul," and "The Gal I Left Behind Me."

The music of Villa-Lobos, the noted Brazilian composer, will be heard for the first time at these concerts when his Chores No. 10 is performed.

2 Killer-Dillers On Gayety Bill

The Gayety Theater will present, beginning Friday, a double-horror show, Bela Lugosi in "The Devil Bat," and the first Boston showing of "I Met A Murderer," mystery drama written and directed by and starring James Mason, youthful rival to Alfred Hitchcock, master of mystery on the screen.

"The Devil Bat" is the story of a kindly and brilliant physician who, deluded into imagining he has been robbed by his neighbors, finally loses control of his sensitive mind. Obsessed with thoughts of revenge, he develops the "Devil Bat," training it to hate the scent of certain types of perfume.

March of Time's "Uncle Sam, Non-Belligerent," and the latest news events will complete the program.

FAMOUS PRODUCER TESTIFIES IN $1,042,000 SUIT AGAINST RKO

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 12—Accusing George Schaefer, president of RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., and other officials of the film company of breach of contract, a famous European producer took the witness stand today at the trial of his $1,042,000 suit against the motion picture corporation.

RKO theaters in Boston are Keith Memorial and RKO Boston.

The plaintiff, Joseph N. Ermolieff, who has produced more than 260 pictures in Europe and has been decorated by the French government, charges that Schaefer deliberately broke a contract under terms of which Ermolieff was to produce both an English and French version of a story entitled "I Solemnly Swear."

Ermolieff, now a resident of Beverly Hills, is the author of the story.

Taking the witness stand in Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor's court, Ermolieff testified he visited Schaefer in New York, and entered into a contract July 8, 1939, whereby the picture was to be produced in French and English under Ermolieff's personal supervision.

"STORY WORTH $60,000"

"Although the story is worth $60,000, the plaintiff testified, "I agreed to sell it for $25,000 in consideration of the agreement Schaefer made on behalf of RKO, to divided the net profits and negative costs with me. It was understood the production was to cost at least $600,000."

On Oct. 31, 1939, Ermolieff declared, the defendants repudiated the contract after he had asked and been promised the full co-operation of the French government and the French Foreign Legion.

Ermolieff told how he had accepted Schaefer's suggestion that the background of the picture be changed from Caucasian to Moroccan and that the title be changed to "Outpost in Morocco."

"Schaefer told me," the plaintiff said, "'I think we have made a Good deal with you and I hope we make a lot of money.'

I replied, 'Yes, I hope you're satisfied'."

After accepting Schaefer's suggestion that the locale be changed, Ermolieff testified, he entered into elaborate research work, engaged the services of a man who served 15 years in the Foreign Legion as a technical assistant and engaged in correspondence with the vice president of the French Chamber of Deputies in connection with the projected film.

"I was on the point of leaving for France to complete production arrangements," said Ermolieff, "when Schaefer told me I must go to Hollywood instead.

"'I had prepared to get various British stars for leading roles, but Schaeffer assured me his studio in Hollywood would help me find the proper artists.

"When I was informed that Schaefer had decided I should not make the trip to France I was nonplussed. When I arrived in Hollywood, I was told that I should have had a shooting script ready that was manifestly impossible, so I had been hindered and harrassed at all points.

"In evenespect, I lived up to my part of the agreement, but Schaefer as RKO wilfully and deliberatelyoke the contract."

After he had been ordered to stop work on English version, but to continue preparations to produce the French version of the story he did ordered, but finally when told the co agreement was off, Ermolieff acted.

RAF Coast Defense Shipping's Watchdog

How the RAF's "coastal command" is fighting with mines, torpedoes and bombs to protect British shipping, the Channel and the northwestern approaches over the North Sea as described in the following authoritative article by Wing Commander L. V. Fraser, a veteran air officer of the RAF.

LONDON, Feb. 12 (INS)—A new phase in the work of the Royal Air Force coastal command has opened now that British shipping is being exposed to attack by Nazi medium and long-range bombers based at aerodromes in occupied France.

The squadrons guarding the channel and Northwestern approaches over the North sea have been strengthened. Over these areas men of the coastal command watch, bomb and fight as occasion arises.

From day to day coastal command pilots are out hunting down Focke Wulf Condor flying boats working out of Bordeaux and able to fly far out on British trade routes along the northwest coast of Ireland. This new challenge is only the last of a series with which the coastal command has had to deal.

MINE ENEMY PORTS

All forms of offensive activity now make up a large part of the command's work. Night after night mine-laying aircraft go out to make Nazi-controlled estuaries and ports dangerous for enemy shipping.

Another form of hitting back calls for torpedo attacks on enemy ships. Coastal command torpedoes have sunk abut 50,000 tons of enemy shipping.

All in all, the pilots and crews of the coastal command are doing one of Britain's biggest war jobs, often in the teeth of "wicked" weather. They maintain never-ceasing photographic and reconnaissance patrols to keep an eye on the invasion menace from Trondheim in Norway to Bordeaux in France.

They help the British navy to guard convoys bringing food and the sinews of war to Britain. They attack enemy submarines whenever their periscopes are seen. They bomb enemy coastal bases and attack enemy shipping.

The coastal command co-operates very closely with the navy. Each service knows exactly what the other is doing. Throughout every day new information is transmitted to coastal command headquarters from its outlying stations and naval liaison officers work side by side with operations officers of the RAF.

FIVE MAIN TYPES

The coastal command, virtually a complete air force in itself, has five main types of aircraft—general reconnaissance, torpedo carriers, long-range fighters, bombers and photographic reconnaissance planes.

The Dutch naval air service is helping, as are Polish and Belgian pilots, all trained for this specialized work. There are also squadrons of the Royal Australian Air Force operating huge Sunderland flying boats.

Now, after 17 months of war, the coastal command has built up an impressive record. During the first 12 months of the war, aircraft of the coastal command flew 34,500,000 miles—more than a thousand times around the world.

From the beginning of the war until Jan. 15, last, the command provided over-ocean escort for 4700 convoys. That meant 16,500 separate flights by aircraft. During the last six months, the average monthly time devoted to convoy flights has been approximately 5300 hours.

On anti-submarine flights as distinct from convoy flying, the monthly average has been in the vicinity of 1500 hours. Yet, despite this enormous amount of work, command pilots in the last six months have put in a monthly average of 3200 hours on reconnaissance flights.

GRIM HUNT

The command's old enemy, the submarine, has been hunted without respite since the war began. Up to the beginning of this year submarines were sighted on 260 occasions and it was possible to make 166 attacks.

Convoys are guarded from the air by day and also on moon-lit nights. On these trips, the crew of a Lockheed-Hudson—an American built ship of high popularity in the RAF—may fly 400 miles out over the Atlantic, perhaps never more than 1500 feet above the sea. The weather may be foul but the patrol goes on. Though a submarine may never show itself the very presence of the aircraft is enough to protect the convoy.

The work of coastal command was planned and perfected in the days before the war, so that British sea trade could be safeguarded But changing phases of the war have brought more and different work.

During the first quiescent months of the war the aircraft of the coastal command flew thousands of miles safe-guarding British ocean-going and coastal convoys and keeping a lookout for German commerce raiders.

The first change came when the Germans obtained bases in Norway so that British aircraft on their North Sea sweeps encountered high performance fighter aircraft operating from Norwegian airfields.

NEW WORK ADDED

The coastal command shared with the navy the task of protecting our troopships and convoys en route to Norway.

By last June, attacks on airfields and harbors in Norway had been added to the work of the coastal command. Hudsons on reconnaissance flights dropped tons of high explosive bombs on such Nazi bases as Stavangar and Bergen.

German supply ships in the fjords were attacked and British aircraft carried out further raids on air bases and communications in southern Norway and Denmark.

The evacuation of Dunkirk threw more work onto the shoulders of the coastal command. Aircraft originally intended to guard trade routes were thrown into the breach for the vital task of helping cover the return of the British expeditionary force to England.

The fifth phase, coming as a result of Nazi short-range air and U-boat attacks on British shipping from bases seized in France, constitutes the challenge which the coastal command is meeting day and night with mine, torpedo and bomb.

Mary X. Enjoys Shopping Trip

I got my first pay envelope. It appealed to me about as much as shopping. And now I don't mind either one.

As for my wardrobe problem, I started off with a bang by buying a Persian lamb coat and a pert hat I hadn't dared to buy a fur coat in the last few years because in them I looked like a fur-bearing hariet. And in my new coat I was whistled at twice!

The dress department, which used to be my Waterloo, was fun I got into size eleven easily. I bought one dress, a navy faille with military buttons and an insignia on the pocket. And, glory be, no alterations except shortening! Size 14 used to be too tight below and miles too big above.

Mary's boundless energy makes us feel a little envious. We all sort of toy with —until that steak with the idea of copying her feat mushrooms and French fried potatoes shows up!

Your Daily Health Quiz

How Many Tons of Blood Does the Heart Pump Daily?

Although the average person has only 6 to 7 pints of blood normally, it circulates through the body so fast that the heart probably pumps 9 to 10 tons of blood daily!

Many people never realize that the blood stream must travel at this terrific speed in order to keep you alive. As you know, blood is made up of millions of tiny red blood cells. Each of these cells picks up a load of life giving oxygen from the lungs—then rushes off to all parts of the body and releases its cargo to hungry living tissues. When the oxygen is burned up, the cells then carry off waste substance, called carbon dioxide, back through the lungs where it is exhausted.

When blood is rich and pure, it contains chemical substances and cells capable of repairing damaged body tissues and replenishing your strength and energy. That is why some folks get over sickness and disease twice as fast as others . . . rarely feel tired . . . never complain . . . even cuts and bruises vanish like magic.

Now here's a tip. If your blood is thin, pale and watery . . . unable to supply rugged strength and vibrant energy . . . do something about it today. Get a bottle of Bonquet (pronounced Bon-Kay) Tablets. Devised by an eminent biochemist, Bonquet Tablets contain the active principle of raw liver (the red blood cell maturing factor), organic vegetable iron and other minerals, vitamin B complex, formed with pure crystalline vitamins B and C, and assimilable calcium and phosphorus. Your blood needs these essential raw materials that are generally deficient in the modern everyday diet.

Try Bonquet Tablets for 30 days. If you want to see new dazzling blood in your veins, if you don't feel better, have more strength and energy, your money will be immediately refunded. Large size $1.97 and $3.93 at:

At least five persons died and 26 others were injured in Philadelphia's Latin Quarter when a series of gas explosions and fire wrecked a block-long row of houses. Here's general view of area.

'Ho, Hum'

It's Mr. Hyacintha Macon speaking at Franklin Park Zoo (above) imparting words in his own language that go something like this. "What goes on here . . . more visitors. I hope these people treat me with more respect than yesterday's gang and don't ask me if I went a cracker. Oh, they're okay . . . I think I'll do a climbing stunt for them." TURKEY... QUESTION MARK OF BALKAN CRISIS

Camel Corps—A Nazi strike at Greece through Bulgaria would bring Turkey into the European conflict . . . and the famed Turkish Camel Corps into action.

Ready—War for Turkey would fill the Bulgarian skies with British-trained airmen of the powerful Turkish air force.

Enigma—With Russia reported to have given Germany permission to cross over Bulgaria for an attack on Greece (to relieve pressure on Italian armies in Albania), Turkey rises as the enigma of the Near East. Now on record with official declarations that a Nazi move into Bulgaria would mean war, Turkey stands ready . . . with modern, well-trained armies mobilized, with a united people prepared to swing into an offensive to prevent being forced into the defensive if the Greek armies are annihilated. So, with tanks and planes (as above), with half-a-million soldiers under arms, Turkey continues to be the question mark of Europe.

Gunners The modern weapons of Turkey's army consist of many made in Britain . . . as this anti-aircraft gun. These men are training.

Prepared to Fight—Well-equipped and well-trained in the methods of modern warfare, these Turkish soldiers are some of the 500,000 under arms . . . and Turkey boasts that she can fully-equip 2,000,000 others . . . if and when.

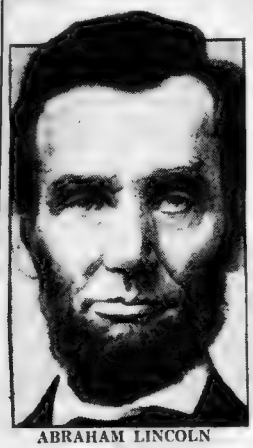
ABRAHAM LINCOLN was a great believer in having the United States mind its own business in the matter of foreign relations, especially when domestic problems were of such a nature as to require the whole attention of the nation.



ABRAHAM LINCOLN
Restrained Meddlers

The entire period covered by his administration was of course beset by the vexing problem of keeping the Union intact, which was sufficient to keep the minds of most of our people on their very own business.

However, there arose during the first administration of Mr. Lincoln, while the war between the States was in progress, an altercation with Spain over affairs in Santo Domingo which some of our people thought should be made our concern.

Apparently there is nothing, not even a civil war, which can persuade ALL of our people to be strictly and solely concerned with their own business.

There is a modern, and in fact current, illustration of that disposition in the meddling with foreign affairs which has distracted many Americans in very recent times from the perilous situation of our own democracy. In the instance of the Spanish altercation, Mr. Lincoln settled the issue with a story, as was his habit.

It seems that his Secretary of State, Mr. Seward, was among those whose minds were not entirely occupied with American affairs, and was pressing for a course of intervention in the affairs of Spain.

This, too, has a modern and in fact a current counterpart.

TO MR. SEWARD was told one of the Lincoln favorite stories about the wayward Negro who was admonished by his preacher to beware which "road" he took in life, since there were only two roads available—one being the narrow way that leads straight to destruction, and the other the broad way that leads right to damnation.

Asked which way he would prefer to go, the wayward one said that in the face of such a choice he thought he would "take to the woods."

Whereupon, Mr. Lincoln drew his moral for Seward, saying:

"I am not willing to assume any new troubles or responsibilities at this time, and shall, therefore, avoid going to the one place with Spain or with Santo Domingo to the other, but shall 'take to the woods.'

"We will maintain an HONEST AND STRICT NEUTRALITY."

Since Mr. Lincoln brought us so safely "through the woods," and since it was so advantageous to that purpose to avoid foreign entanglements, perhaps our present dilemma might be safely spanned without meddling and by maintaining strict neutrality.

Mr. Lincoln quite frankly distrusted interventionists, believing they diverted the energies of the American people from their real tasks.

He was once reminded, by a loquacious opponent of the course he was pursuing, of another story.

He said that in his experiences on the Illinois river he knew of a boat in which the builders had installed an adequate boiler, a six-foot one; but which the builders had also equipped with a six-foot whistle—the unhappy result being that whenever the whistle was blown the boat stopped.

It is sad to relate, but pertinent, that our current interventionists are diverting our minds and energies from our strictly American problems and dangers—in effect, are blowing the whistle which stops the boat.

MR. LINCOLN'S STORIES were often light in vein but never light in point.

He was never more earnest than when he said that if America is ever destroyed it will be accomplished by forces WITHIN and not beyond the borders of this nation.

"If destructon be our lot," he said, "we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of free men, we must live together all time or die by suicide."

We are endowed with a wealth of wisdom, in Lincoln's words.

We might do well to observe his birthday by recalling the practical wisdom of the course which he pursued for the benefit and profit of the troubled America of his day, and perhaps discern therein an ample and practical understanding of the perils and evils of troubled America TODAY.

On The Side

WHAT was Abraham Lincoln's greatest saying? I favor: "That this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth." My second choice would be: "Let us have faith that right makes right; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it." What is your favorite Lincoln anecdote? I go for the time Honest Abe asked some members of his Cabinet: "If you call a tail a leg, how many legs has a dog?" somebody answered "five." Lincoln said: "No; calling a tail a leg don't make it a leg."

CONFIDENTIAL: Have you a son? Don't forget a boy between the ages of nine and 13 requires as much food as a man and a youngster between 14 and 19 requires more food than a man. So, ma'am, when the lad asks for second helpings heap up the plate . . . Records of the great men of all time indicate a man is most likely to do his best work around the age of 47 . . . Woman is considered short, petite or a cute little trick when she is from four feet 11 inches to five feet three inches. She is in the tall class when from five feet 5½ inches to five feet 10 inches. As previously recorded here, the style experts say the ideal female for the 1941 styles will be a "long-stemmed strawberry blonde" around five feet eight inches tall.

PASSING BY: Jane Withers. Artful adolescent of the screen. I like her better than Shirley Temple and as much as Deanna Durbin. Of course Jane can't sing like Deanna, but she knows better how to inspire a laugh or a tear . . . Maxine Sullivan. Sepia songstress. Achieved considerable fame rendering the "Loch Lomond" in swing time. As for treating much loved songs of the yesteryear this way, I am in accord with the sentiment of Clarence Gaskill's ditty "Please Don't Swing the Old Songs," which goes in part:

Please don't swing the old songs,
Don't kick my old dog Tray,
Please be kind to Jeanie,
Her hair is turning gray.

ASIDES: Last name in Detroit, Mich., telephone book is A. Zzzbisco. How about your town? . . . In "Paul Adams," by S. J. Horn, a dentist is made the hero of a romantic novel . . . New Yorker says the best burlesque show ever was "Fulton's Jolly Grass Widows," which featured Joe E. Howard and Alexander Carr. Never saw that. I think the best burlesque show of all time was "Wine, Women and Song," starring Alexander Carr and Bonita and Lew Hearn . . . "So one Harriet of our town is wild about Nelson Eddy," writes a feminine Detroiter. "She can have him. The man I admire is Charley Gehringer, the ball player. I have a 50-page scrap book of clippings and they are all about Charley."

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Tuesday — Yesterday Lord and Lady Halifax lunched with me and it was my first opportunity to meet them, for they were prevented from coming earlier by Lady Halifax's illness.

In the afternoon, I spent an hour with Dr. Latham Hatcher and a group that is planning a meeting in the interests of better guidance for rural youth

The defense program is affecting rural youth as it is affecting young people in the cities. In many cases it is harder in rural areas for them to obtain guidance or help on any problem

I noticed that, in our discussion, the health problem seemed very important to a great many of us. It is rather generally accepted that, from the draft experience, we shall gain much knowledge of value to rural communities and homes, which will be applicable to standards of living in rural communities as well as to urban communities.

MANY of the physical disabilities which come to young people between the ages of 18 and 25 have their roots in malnutrition, or in bad habits of diet and general physical care acquired during childhood and adolescence.

It is often not only a question of family income, but a lack of knowledge which brings about physical defects and weaknesses which handicap young people in later life.

This morning I was fortunate to have an opportunity to talk over with people in the government, who are now on various aspects of the problem, the housing situation here in the District of Columbia, and the inclusion of such things as hospitals and schools in the defense housing projects.

I SOMETIMES wonder if people outside of the government have any idea how many people in the government service are working on the ideas which they are troubled about.

They send in suggestions in rather unfinished form which need to be worked over and finally put into shape for actual achievement.

At 11:30, a group of men from Williamsport, Pa., came in to tell me of the plight in which their valley finds itself. They have three cities where the people are mainly miners and gradually mine after mine is closing down, leaving them with no means of earning a living.

I had to acknowledge that I could not pull rabbits out of a hat, but I sent them over to the National Resources Board to be steered into the right channels for expert advice on their problem.

I only hope that these people, who represent so many hopeless, anxious people at home, found some light and hope in the nation's capital.

PADEREWSKI THANKS AMERICANS

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Ignace Paderewski made a special recording at the Victor studios last week. It is a speech of gratitude for the help of the American people. The recording will be distributed throughout the country . . . In the meantime Paderewski has left for Palm Beach . . . JOHN G. WINANT: One of your co-passengers on the Clipper will be Margaret Bourke-White, the photographer, who is going to London . . . METROPOLITAN OPERA: Kirsten Flagstad has declared that she will return to Norway at the beginning of April, to try to see her family . . . WILLIAM GREEN: Phil Murray, head of the CIO, will announce the amendments he wants made to the lend-lease bill—amendments which practically mean he's against it . . . DRAMATISTS GUILD: On Thursday Paramount bought the movie rights to "Lady in the Dark" for $285,000—the highest price ever paid for a movie story. The entire production cost thereby is repaid . . . DIST. ATTY. O'DWYER: Do you plan to link Murder, Inc., with the disappearance of Judge Crater? . . . CORDELL HULL: The Norwegian consul was invited to attend Saturday's reception for Leland Stowe, the correspondent who was the first to reveal the Fifth Columning in Norway. The invitation was declined, with uncomplimentary descriptives about Stowe . . . JACK KIRKLAND: Saturday night, before Art Smith heard that your production of "Tobacco Road" would continue, the actor stepped up to the bar at Sardi's and ordered: "Give me some of that stuff which I'm off of." . . . GOV. OLSON: Ed Flynn, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, is leaving for California—to try to reunite the Democratic factions there, disrupted because of McAdoo's death.

LEWIS MILESTONE: John Steinbeck revealed this story about "Of Mice and Men." Before you bought the story for movie production, Mervyn LeRoy discussed it with Steinbeck. "I've been thinking about it a lot," said LeRoy. "Y'know what's wrong with it? I'll tell you. That scene where George kills Lennie—well, that should be out. He doesn't have to do it" . . . "Mr. LeRoy," said the author, "it took me almost 200 pages to show inevitability—and now you destroy that with one phrase" . . . "Yeah," said Mervyn LeRoy. "Wonderful, isn't it?" . . . WILL HAYS: Walter Wanger had four conferences at the White House concerning his designation as liaison man between Washington and Hollywood—but nothing definite was arranged . . . STEPHEN VINCENT BENET: Ogden Nash, whose books of poetry include "The Primrose Path," will entertain next week for Johns Hopkins Hospital . . . DEEMS TAYLOR: Carleton Smith, the music critic, is going to Chicago and Detroit for Walt Disney to lecture about "Fantasia" before the premieres are held there.

EMILY POST: Mrs. Marcus Daly, widow of the famed producer, read in a recent gossip column that she and a man named Jack Clifford were enamoured of each other. Mrs. Daly told her friend, Ted Cumming, that inasmuch as she never had met Mr. Clifford, she would like to see the man whose name had been linked so romantically with hers . . . "I hope this won't be considered improper, but intrigue fascinates me," said Mrs. Daly. "I'm giving you one week in which to find Mr. Clifford, and bring him here for dinner" . . . Mrs. Daly thereupon prepared caviar and champagne at the expiration of the week limit, but only Mr. Cumming appeared. "Sorry I couldn't bring the gentleman," he explained. "But I checked on him thoroughly—Jack Clifford has been dead seven years" . . . ARCHIBALD MacLEISH: Clifford Odets and Artie Shaw visited the night clubs Saturday night. Odets, at frequent intervals, made notations in a memo book he always carries. "I've got a memo book, too," Shaw told him, "but I think there's only one item in it." He showed it to the playwright. The single memo was: "Write Washington. Get copy of Versailles Treaty" . . . WILLIAM A. KNUDSEN: One American inventor, who refused to wait his turn at the National Inventors Council—which is the federal agency for all defense inventions—sought quick action by writing, "If I don't hear from you within the next five days I shall immediately take my invention to the German embassy."

NEW ENGLAND'S FIRST IDEAL prospect as a male movie star of the heroic type, Stirling Hayden, will mingle with his old shipmates of the Gloucester wharves Saturday . . . Th's is the same party planned for several weeks ago but postponed because of a change in Stirling's schedule.

CAPTAIN BEN PINE'S wharf in the famous fishing port will be the scene of the shindig . . . Stirling was navigator of Skipper Pine's racing schooner, Gertrude L. Thebaud in one of the international series against the Nova Scotians . . . Young Hayden's rise has been spectacular.

WITH ONLY ONE EPIC under his belt, Stirling will be starred in his next fillum . . . Not since James Cagney first started slapping grapefruit against the delicate profiles of his leading women, in "Public Enemy," has a male star won top honors so quickly.

ANOTHER BOSTONIAN—this time a young woman—returns to the old homestead this week under auspices that are even more favorable for her success than when she was writing a column for this newspaper under the heading "Girl About Town" . . . She is Alyce Siemans, that was, and Alice Brewer (her maiden name), as of now.

ALYCE, OR ALICE, has been conducting a radio sports program in New York . . . As she used the name of Brewer in New York, her Boston activities will find her similarly identified . . . And such activities! . . . Miss Brewer is ready to launch a shooting range in the heart of the Boston Rialto . . . It is nearly ready for a Hollywood premiere . . . The location is directly opposite the Cocoanut Grove, in a building with entrances on Piedmont and Winchester streets.

THE SHOOTING RANGE will be staffed by a bevy of beauties, each of whom can shoot like Annie Oakley, Miss Brewer declares . . . They will be costumed in abbreviated sports togs, and the entire venture will have a musical comedy flavor which is expected to attract the paying customers.

MISS BREWER MAINTAINS that her commercial project is tinged somewhat with national idealism . . . She wishes to teach the womenfolk how to shoot! . . . A famous arms-manufacturer has turned out rifles weighing only six pounds, and which do not recoil . . . The daintiest girl will be able to handle the weapons without much trouble.

ALICE IS WORKING on a volume which, she says, will transform the female population from a mass of grown-up Baby Snookses in the matter of sports . . . Such silly questions as whether the fullback can't be made to keep away from the bottle, posed by a mythical fair lady who once attended a Harvard game, may be avoided by a single reading of the Brewer handbook, "A Primer in Sports for Ladies" . . . Dan Parker, the New York sports-columnist, is doing the editing, and Jack Dempsey has written the foreword.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Wallace Woo, Ruby Foo's manager at the Providence Beachcomber, has been drafted . . . And Eddie Edwards' Continentals, the marvelous four-piece band which George Frasier and several bigtime bandleaders have been raving about, has lost its electric guitarist, Nick Daquila.

LILLIAN CARMEN
She Charms Mayfair Customers

ORRIN TUCKER heard him at the Beachcomber and hired him away . . . (At $130 a week and the regular fee for recordings) . . . But Maestro Edwards thinks his new guitarist, Ricco Turchetti, is as good as his predecessor . . . Lillian Carmen's entrancing voice is the chief delight of an excellent new show at the Mayfair . . . Linscott Manning's violent death in Kansas City had repercussions along the after-dark route . . . He was a free-handed spender . . . But don't credit stories of his reputedly mystical success in playing the horses . . . He didn't have a winning system—either.

MAY BE CANDIDATE FOR ACADEMY

Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12—If I were a betting woman I'd say that if Paramount gives Bob Hope the proper vehicles, come next academy voting time, he will be in the running. He is so loved by the fans who adore his nonsense, that great care should be taken in the selection of his vehicles.

Buddy De Sylva, who has promised to see that Bob gets the breaks, has selected a re-make of George Ade's comedy "Back Home and Broke" for Bob. I don't know whether this one will help since it is probably dated. Thomas Meighan made it in 1921. To be fair, however, any Ade comedy is good and this one was one of Meighan's best pictures. A 1941 rewrite job, too, can work wonders, so we will see what happens.

RUTH CHATTERTON

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Eight curtain calls for Ruth Chatterton at "Pygmalion" made all of those who love her very happy. Later at the Richard Barthelmesses with her leading man, Barry Thompson, her mother, Mrs. Tillie Chatterton, and all of her old friends, we talked until the wee sma' hours.

I sat at dinner with Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers after playing five games of backgammon with Buddy who is a champ; Sylvia Fairbanks with the Charles Feldmans, Richard Gully, Mary Astor and Manuel Del Campo, Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell, Auriole Lee were at the Barthelmess party and John Van Druten, famed author, old friend of Ruth's, was there personally to congratulate her.

Saw Betty Compson looking breath-takingly beautiful at the theater, the Joe E. Browns, all of whom actually cheered Ruth who, for my money is better than Wendy Hiller was in the movie version. The John Hubbards have named their week-old daughter Lois Maryan.

Sitting oblivious to the world at the Gotham were Jane Russell and her newest boyfriend, Bob Waterfield, U. C. L. A. student; Myrna Loy will visit her home in Montana as soon as she finishes her next picture.

What's this I hear that Priscilla Lane and David Lewis have been stepping out? Well, I saw him at a party the other eve with Norma Shearer; Bob Stack's grandmother, the beloved Mrs. Modini Wood, fell and broke three ribs but she is taking it in her stride and not letting it get her down.

Gene Raymond trains East to meet Jeanette MacDonald who gives her last concert of the season Friday; Phil Berg and Buster Collier will give a big party at the Bergs Saturday night in honor of their natal days.

THE MOST TOUCHING and best human interest story of the week is the rush airplane flight made by "Laddie," an ageing airedale, to his young master, Pvt. Everett Scott, at Camp Ord. The 10-year-old dog had grieved so deeply for his pal that practically at death's door they flew him from Kansas City to San Francisco by TWA. But that is only half the story. Listen to this:

If "Laddie" recuperates, and today the veterinary said he is improving, he will become a movie star at Universal in the next Dick Arlen-Andy Devine picture, "Mutiny In the Arctic." Ben Pivar, the producer, is flying to Camp Ord tomorrow to see if "Laddie" will pull through.

At Universal they figure he is destined to be as famous as Rin-Tin-Tin—for every news wire service in the country carried the story—and telephone calls have flooded the newspapers asking if the dog is still alive.

AMAZING what one year has done for Walter Wanger. Last year he didn't have one picture that merited consideration from the academy and within 12 months he has become a top producer with two films in the running, "Foreign Correspondent" and "Long Voyage Home."

Mary Pickford, his co-producer at U. A., couldn't be more thrilled over his success than if two of her pictures were up, and she's urging Walter to make more films. Interesting, in view of this, that Wanger has just made a deal with Director Henry Hathaway, of "Bengal Lancers" and "Johnny Apollo" fame.

Henry's first for Walter will be "Sundown," the current magazine story by Barre Lyndon—a romantic adventure story with an African locale.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND is holding the social and sporting spotlight this week and next—with the two biggest dog shows of the East taking place in Gotham and Boston . . .

After competing for shiny new trophies and ribbons at the Westminster Kennel Club show which is going on now in New York, society's pups will return to Boston to spruce up for the Eastern Dog Club's annual two-day event in Mechanics Building . .

Almost as traditional of Washington's Birthday as the cherry tree and hatchet, are the canine barks and yelps which echo through the vast interior of eMechanics Hall every Feb. 22d . . . This year's holiday falls on a week-end which provides ample opportunities for parties and entertaining in honor of visiting exhibitors . . .

Mr. and Mrs. George Saltonstall West of Chestnut Hill are exhibiting their famous greyhounds in Gotham this week . . . This is the first time in a good many years that the name of their daughter, Dorothy, is missing from the show programs . . . Dorothy has always been a prominent exhibitor but this year she is occupied with the problems of learning how to be the wife of a British officer on active duty in Kenya, South Africa . . . She was married in November to Captain T. Desmond Butler of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers . . .

POST DEB JOAN CURTIS displaying a fancy British crown which she helped to design as part of the decorations for the forthcoming British War Relief Ball, Feb. 20, at the Copley Plaza. Joan is the daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Estabrook of Milton and one of the many young socialites taking an active part in plans for the ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Choate of Danvers, who have a large kennel of prize winning Sealyhams, are also exhibiting in Gotham and will return next week to join their friends and neighbors in making the Boston show a social and sporting highlight of the late winter season . . .

Theodore C. Hollander heads the list of stewards for the Eastern show . . . Serving with him will be Mr. and Mrs. William Dexter, James R. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dresser, George Putnam, Thomas Sanders, Dickson Smith, Mrs. Gilbert Steward, William B. Frothingham, Laurence E. Richardson, Webb B. White, Frederic C. Dumaine, Jr., Mrs. Warren Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. William Emerson, Mrs. Dana B. Jefferson, Jr., Henry McBurney Parker, William O. Kimball, James P. Parker, Jr., and many others . . .

Also taking an active part in the show are Francis V. Cranes, Josiah Child, Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Shaw, Jr., Mrs. Henry Wheeler, Jr., the Keith Merrills, Camilla Warren, Gerald Boardman, and many other local dog fanciers . . .

The honor of selecting the best dog in the show has been given to William Prescott Wolcott of Milton . . . Other judges will be Charles L. Burrage, Mrs. Drury L. Sheraton, Charles W. Greenough, Mrs. Geraldine R. Dodge of New York, Paul T. Haskell, Philip Bondy of Goldens Bridge, N. Y., Robert Sedgwick and Clarence N. Grey . . .

Bob Does His Theatrical Shopping

BOB BACON, son of former Lieut.-Governor Gaspar G. Bacon, is as busy as a debutante having fittings for gowns, silken hosiery and negligees, in preparation for playing the role of an alluring hostess in the Hasty Pudding's forthcoming musical extravanza "One on the House" . . . Bob's performance of a sizzling South American number last year won such acclaim that a new part has been written especially for him . . .

Robert Coleman has been cast as the show's leading lady, opposite Gar Peirson who plays the role of a Harvard grad . . . At this stage of the rehearsing and casting it's a toss up between George Blackman and Franklin Tyler for the role of the loveable embezzler in the show . . . Prescott Huidekoper and William Chambers will do a number of tap dance specialties and the cast will also include Ben Bradlee, Henry King, Harold Munro and Robert Winsor, 3d.

Educational Union Luncheon

Mrs. Albert Farwell Bemis, Mrs. Christan E. Born and Mrs. Ernest A. Codman are among the Women's Educational and Industrial Union members planning to attend a luncheon at the Union Friday. Guest of honor will be Dr. Walter M. Kotschnig, professor of comparative education at Smith College, who will speak on "Hitler and the German Mind."

Dr. Kotschnig served as general secretary of the International Student Service in Geneva for several years and was director of the League of Nations high commission for refugees coming from Germany.

Others planing to attend the luncheon are Miss Rebekah Hobbs, Mrs. Augustus Hemenway, Mrs. George E. Kunhardt, Mrs. William S. H. Lothrop, Miss Lucy Lowell, Mrs. Lawrence K. Lunt, Mrs. George Meglew, Mrs. H. Maynard Rees, Mrs. Charles F. Richardson, Mrs. T. Russell Sullivan, Mrs. Alfred M. Tozzer and Mrs. John J. Thomas.

Birthday Horoscope

You Can Be Beautiful

Learn Your Facial ABC's

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S HARD to believe . . . but in this age of specific cosmetics for specific skin problems and types . . . more than one girl is getting nowhere fast by using the wrong kind for her skin! Perhaps it's a highly liquefying cleansing cream that's helping further to dry out a dry complexion . . . or a non-alcoholic astringent with an oil base that's used on an oily skin . . . so look into the matter of your own cosmetic lineup with a really calculating eye.

If you're not too sure of yourself when you encounter piles of jars and stacks of bottles . . . learn the ABC's of your own beauty problem through a new "ABC" kit.

It's an ensemble that contains five basic items, all done up in a miniature brief case that's a replica of a kindergarten child's school bag. And the little leaflet with a little red schoolhouse on it says:

"Morn and night your home-work do.
If you would be a lovely you.
It's really simple as ABC
Turn this page and you will see."

There is a dry, sensitive skin kit . . . and an oily skin kit, which goes for the girl who has the prevalent type of complexion, oily here and normal there! Each kit is a modest $1.75.

These preparations, every one of them, are used in a famous salon . . . and are a regulation part of the facials . . . so that's actually what you're getting . . . home facials!

The dry kit has cleansing cream, verbena cream, make-up base, pure oil cream, and a mild toner; the oily kit has cleansing cream, skin-smooth cream, complexion cream, liquid make-up, and astringent.

If you'd like all further information on this salon-facial-treatment-at-home kit, the "ABC's of Beauty," phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cowboy Songs Are Grand Fun

Nothing like a real cowboy song to warm you up after a frolic with old man winter! How grand those Western ditties sound when you're thawing out round the fire—and how the gang will love singing an old favorite such as "The Cowboy."

The first verse goes:

"All day on the prairie in the saddle I ride,
Not even a dog, boys, to trot by my side.
My fire I must kindle with chips gathered 'round,
And boil my own coffee without being ground."

Then whoop her up with "Jesse James," a rip-roarin' old ballad!

"It was one of the gang called little Robert Ford,
He shot poor Jesse on the sly."

Or start that grand old cowboy love song, "Red River Valley," and put everyone in a romantic mood. "May you never forget those sweet hours,
That we spent in Red River Valley . . ."

These favorite songs as well as many others you'll want to sing are given complete in the new edition of our 40-page songbook Western Heart Throbs. Has words, melodies, piano accompaniments and guitar diagrams for 26 Western ditties. Includes "Git Along Little Dogies," "I Ride an Old Paint" and more, to keep you happily singing many an evening.

Send 15 cents in coins for our songbook, Western Heart Throbs to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and name of book.

Delicious Rice Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

RICE, no doubt, is the oldest food in the world, for many authorities trace its origin back as far as 3000 B. C. Even today rice and food are synonymous in many languages the world over. In fact, a plentiful rice crop actually means life for millions of people.

In this country, because we have plenty of other grains, we do not depend on rice for subsistence—we do, however, make use of our own native product in many ways. It is a good mixer—combines with any food flavor and may be served at any course from breakfast to the midnight supper party.

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9502 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards 35-inch fabric and 2¼ yards rickrack.

To get this pattern send 15 cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th st., New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

BOILED RICE

Nothing is more delicious with meat or poultry than boiled rice cooked in such a way that each creamy grain stands out separately from the others. To produce this effect, the rice is first washed thoroughly in several waters until the loose starch is drained out. For a cup of rice, have two quarts of boiling water ready in a deep sauce pan. Add three teaspoonfuls of salt, then slowly drop in the washed rice so that boiling is not stopped. After 12 minutes' rapid boiling, remove a few grains and test for softness. When rice is soft but firm (12 to 25 minutes), drain in a colander. Place colander with rice covered by a cloth over steaming water to fluff and dry out.

CHARTREUSE OF MEAT AND RICE

2 cups cooked rice
¼ cup bread crumbs
Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. chopped onion
1 cup cooked meat, chopped
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Combine chopped meat (lamb, veal or chicken) bread crumbs, eggs, parsley and onion. (Omit onion if chicken is used). Season to taste with salt, pepper and Worcestershire. Line a greased mold or coffee can with boiled or steamed rice; add and fill center with meat mixture, covering with more rice. Lay a piece of heavy waxed paper over the top and cover. Steam for 30 minutes; then unmold on platter and serve with tomato sauce.

FRIED LAMB WITH RICE AND CURRANT JELLY

1 qt. hot boiled rice
1½ lbs. lamb steak
4 tbsp. butter
Salt to taste
1 glass currant jelly

Cut young tender meat into one-inch pieces. Season. Fry in butter until meat is brown and tender. Push to one side of pan. Add jelly and melt with meat juice. Place hot rice in center of platter. Place hot lamb around rice. Pour hot sauce over the rice. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

Rice may also be steamed in a double boiler. This, of course, takes a longer time. In this method 1½ cups of milk and 1 teaspoon of salt are used for a cup of rice. White rice steamed in milk furnishes the foundation for simple desserts which most of us like so much. Shaved maple sugar or brown sugar and cream, or crushed fruit are good accompaniments; chocolate or caramel sauce may also be used.

BUTTERSCOTCH RICE BAVARIAN

2 cups cooked rice
¼ cup cold milk
1 cup brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbsp. plain gelatin
1½ cups hot milk
2 tbsp. butter, melted
1 cup whipped cream
1 cup nut meats

Soak the gelatin in the cold milk. Dissolve in hot milk. Add cooked rice, brown sugar, butter and salt. Cool. Fold in flavoring and the whipped cream and nuts. Turn into a wet mold and chill. Serve unmolded with butterscotch sauce or whipped cream flavored with maple syrup. Makes six servings.

Dress Goes on Like Coat

THERE'S so much flattery in the dress that goes on like a coat . . . wonderfully slimming . . . that it's surprising nothing much has been done with it for so long . . . not until this semi-rough crepe with a marvelous neckline arrived! Fresh white pique, carried in a long line to the waist, emphasizes the smartness of the open collar. LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

YOU KNOW you ought to do a job on yourself. No matter how much you may blame other people for your various boosted tunes, you know that there are things in yourself which are twisted things, which put you on the spot.

And always you've wished you could do something about these things . . . something that would make you strong and supple and shrewd instead of weak and floppy and, perhaps, a bit stupid.

Year after year, you've pitted yourself to pieces . . . analyzed each fault . . . gone through bitter hours of regret . . . through bright hours of fresh resolve . . . only to end in deeper discouragement. For, in spite of all you've struggle, the same old faults hang on, don't they?

I once read a book called "Some Principles and Practices of the Spiritual Life," by B. W. Maturin. And in that book you'll find the answer to what ails you. Listen!

"No one will ever develop his best self by always watching himself."

SIMPLE WORDS . . . but think them over. You say you want to change yourself—you know you need that change. So you've been watching yourself—and getting exactly nowhere. But what did you expect?

Suppose you had a hole in your house wall? Could you cure it by "watching"? Of course you couldn't. You might make the most skillful measurements and estimates of that hole—hire clever draughtsmen to draw diagrams of it—pay building experts to give you opinions concerning it. You might even get all steamed up emotionally over that hole—weep about it, swear at it.

But, after your explosion was over, the hole would still be a hole. It wouldn't have diminished by one millionth of an inch. If you honestly desired to eliminate that hole you'd have to bring in new material to fill it—wood, brick, stone or stucco.

A homely simile, but it touches the deepest spiritual truth. If you want to cure a hole in your life—any hole, from petty habit to deadly vice—you can't cure it by "watching it" or wishing, or wallowing in regret or good resolutions. You'll just have to get busy and bring new materials into your life.

Substantial new materials. Real life stuff. New interests. New occupations. New friends. New ideas. New risks. Rough stuff, all of it. Rough as wood and stone and stucco. Infinitely harder to tackle than the soft, sloppy stuff of dreams in which you've been indulging.

IF YOU REALLY want to change yourself and your life—that's the only way to do it!

And how does that apply to you, Mary, working in your lonely kitchen, doing the monotonous jobs you loathe? Or to you, Jane, tapping the same old tiresome keys in some office? Or to you, Bill, humped idle and hopeless on some park bench? You have holes in your lives—and you know it.

But what can you do except "watch" them? What chance have you to bring in "new materials"?

As much chance as any soldier of fortune—any captain of industry—any prima donna or big shot!

Love and Marriage

Philanderer Forgets Main Path to Love

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I am a married woman of 30. We have three children, between the ages of 10 and six. My husband is a year older than I am and we've been married 11 years.

"My husband seems to have lost all love for the [illegible] and me. He never wants to [illegible] any place, not even [illegible] the car, yet he is always ready to chauffeur anyone else who asks him. He takes out other girls [illegible] since we married. He stays out all night and comes home and [illegible] I say anything. He [illegible] You are at liberty to [illegible] I don't like it.'

"Miss Fairfax, you don't know how hard this is to bear. At times I feel so [illegible] I can hardly stand it another minute. Yet in spite of all this [illegible] I love my husband dearly.

"Would you advise me to leave him and try to make a living for myself and my three children, or keep on [illegible] He says he never intends to change his ways.

"UNHAPPY."

We have only the wife's side of the story. If the husband happens to see the letter, he may have something to say in explanation. Very often a husband will recognize a letter and say that his wife nags him, that she's slovenly and that his home is not a [illegible] to flee. They confess sometimes they're astounded at [illegible] wife's appearance.

But this letter has too many earmarks of fact for us to [illegible] the facts as related by the wife.

From the wife's letter the man impresses us as one who squanders his best hours in pursuit of valueless things. And the best [illegible] assistance is children. Children who have been well reared are the best protection for a wife [illegible] old age.

But a man who throws aside all responsibility as husband and father, whose conduct can only recall to mind a [illegible] and indolent, a man who never [illegible] the schoolboy weakness for girl-chasing—what assurance is [illegible] a man paying up for his old age but contempt?

As for the matter leaving home and trying to make a living for herself and three children unless she has had special training that solution of the problem at this era seems [illegible]

This column will be glad to print any suggestions readers have to help the [illegible] problem.

The Lady in the Bus

By Sanford Jarrell

RAIN pelted down incessantly at the busy intersection of Fifth and Mission, but on the other side of the Twin Peaks the sun was shining. Ferris knew this, for he had come from there on a street car. People who just had to be out scurried past the entrance of the bus station.

Automobile headlights were dimly lighted. Little restaurants and lunch counters in the neighborhood were crowded. The clock on the Chronicle tower showed Ferris that it was 12:20 p. m., but the overcast sky made it as gloomy as dusk. His bus left in exactly ten minutes.

The big suitcase he had bought for a quarter was held together by an old belt. In it were all his belongings—two well-worn suits of clothes, a few shirts fresh from the laundry; underclothing, sox, toilet goods, an alarm clock and a few odds and ends.

In Ferris' pocketbook were two five-dollar bills and several pawn tickets, the last of which had made it possible for him to have the ten dollars plus a one-way ticket to Los Angeles. That money, with a little loose change in a vest pocket, constituted his capital.

He moved inside the station, jammed with people who smelled of damp clothes, and after a few moments' wait outside of Gate 9 he boarded the Los Angeles bus, taking a seat well toward the back. Finally the big vehicle wheeled into Mission st. while impatient taxi and truck drivers sounded their horns noisily in a futile effort to unsnarl the traffic tangle caused by the emergence of the bus.

Never a sightly street, Mission with its block after block of office furniture stores, printing establishments and loft buildings presented an even less attractive picture in the rain. Ferris was not intent upon scenery.

He stared gumly at the bald spot on the head of the man in front of him. At Stockton a little woman got on the bus and sat down beside him. She had on a bonnet that might have graced the ladies whose husbands marched in torchlight parades for Blaine, and her black cape was soaking. She carried a small overnight bag that obviously had seen much service.

"My, my," she said, "isn't this an awful rain?"

SADDER AND WISER

Yes, Ferris agreed audibly, it was an awful rain. The weather co-ordinated with his own bitter reflections. What a chump he had been! He had almost forgotten what he had quarreled about with Laura. At any rate, he had flown off the handle over some minor disagreement in running the agency. That was eight months ago. How ludicrously dramatic he had been when he marched into their joint private office that day with a paper Bill Beggs, his lawyer, had drawn up, a legal document giving Laura his half of the business. And how she had made him feel cheap when she tore it up.

The Cast of Characters in "Lady In the Bus"

FERRIS, who has parted from his wife and daughter, seeking work in another locality.

AN OLD LADY, whom Ferris meets on a bus and who tells of how she and her husband quarreled years ago.

But they were both mad, and she did not demur when he took a train for San Francisco that night. There he found that advertising men were a dime a dozen, just like beautiful girls in Hollywood. Laura had not filed the suit for divorce he had thoughtfully suggested. He religiously had bought a hometown paper every day and learned from one issue that he had gone to the Coast "for a long rest on account of his health."

". . . and it was just like this when we came to California on our honeymoon fifty-two years ago. Rain, rain, rain. We couldn't afford a Pullman, but came in a tourist sleeper. I said to Dick, 'Dick, let's go back to Cedar Rapids on the next train.' But Dick had more sense than I had and he said, 'Mary, that's not fair to this country out here. Let's give it a trial.' Well, young man, we just stayed on, and we've never regretted it."

They were pulling into Modesto and Ferris had said "yes" and "Is that so?" any number of times, always mechanically. He hadn't the least idea what the little old lady had been talking about since leaving Stockton. Now he half faced her. Her hair was snow-white, and her face was wrinkled and worn, but her eyes were young and vivacious and shrewd.

He found himself beside her at the lunch counter at Modesto, nibbling on a sandwich and drinking coffee. She had a cup of tea, and talked on. This poor old woman, he reflected, probably can't afford to eat anything. Grandly he insisted on ordering some strawberry shortcake, two portions of it at twenty cents plus tax per portion, and picked up her check. She thanked him kindly.

The valley was green and glistening with the rain as they zoomed down the valley toward Merced, the sun now out brightly.

"It was hard at first," he heard his seat companion saying. "My husband borrowed some money from the bank back home and started a hardware store on Hill st. Los Angeles wasn't much of a city then. It was raw and ugly and in the winter time many of the streets were thick with mud."

What was it that he and Laura had fought over?

What was it he and Laura had fought over? Oh, yes, the Foster Baking Co. account. She didn't want it, despite the fat contract calling for the expenditure of $65,000 a year for newspaper advertising space, which meant a neat commission for the agency. Laura had said Grant Foster was a dangerous windbag too big for his breeches and that the Ferris Advertising Agency would find itself holding the sack, possibly losing its own hard-won credit rating with the Publishers' Ass'n. After all, her judgment in the past on such matters had saved the business. He was a crack salesman and he also had something most advertising salesmen lacked—he could write copy as well. But she had the real business brains of the concern.

HER MISTAKE

"Then came the matter of that plot of ground on Vermont ave.," said the little old lady. "We had gone over the hump, as the saying goes, and had laid aside a few thousand dollars. Our children were growing up, and I wanted to save it for their education. But Dick had an option on that piece of ground for what he said was a bargain. We had quarreled about it and then I did an awful thing. I took the children and went back home to mother."

They had passed Fresno, and were on their way to Visalia and Bakersfield. He was listening to the old lady now with some interest. They had had companion problems.

"Dick was stubborn, too," she was saying. "He let me go back East without a single protest, and that hurt my pride. Then he wrote me briefly that he had bought the Vermont Avenue property. I stayed back in Iowa for over a year. He wrote me once a month, sending me a check and telling me in a few words how things were coming on. One month he hired two more clerks. Again, he bought a new span of horses. He changed cooks. He always signed his letters 'Your obedient servant,' and I signed mine 'Respectfully yours.' I suppose if that had happened these days we would have been divorced.

"I'm telling you this," said the little old lady, "because you're a nice young man."

"And how," said Ferris, "do you know I'm a nice young man?"

"I can always tell," she beamed. "I know you have a nice wife and children."

"I have a nice wife," he found himself admitting, "and one child, a little girl of ten."

"They'll be glad to see you tonight," she said. "Will they be at the bus station?"

"No," he told her truthfully, "they wouldn't be at the bus station."

"How stupid of me," she said. "It would be too late to keep a little girl up. And Sixth and Los Angeles isn't quite the nicest part of the city."

He had no idea where Sixth and Los Angeles was, but he agreed with her that it wasn't one of the nicer parts of Los Angeles. He didn't know why he was leading her to believe that he had a home in that city, with a wife and daughter waiting eagerly for his return. Somehow he didn't want her to know the truth.

"You know what I did after a year?" she asked, resuming the thread of the story. "I finally had sense enough to realize that I had been a plain fool."

Somehow the words coming from her didn't seem out of place.

ALWAYS TOGETHER

"Yes, young man, even if Dick had been wrong, and he wasn't, I shouldn't have packed up and left," she went on. "We should have talked it over quietly, and one or the other of us should have given in gracefully, or we might have compromised. The fact that we managed to hold on to that property for ten years and then sold it at a profit I won't even mention out loud, has nothing to do with it. I just brought the children back to California, and we've never been apart since then, Dick and I."

From Bakersfield into Los Angeles and the city's vast environs he listened to her patiently and with increasing respect. She was bright and full of natural witticisms and sound sense and she told him how she liked young people and tried to keep up with them.

He promised to bring his wife and Gloria to call on her within a week or two, and she gave him her neatly engraved card, "Mrs. Richard Brown," and in a neat fine hand she scribbled her Beverly Hills address and 'phone number. At the bus station he met her husband, a tall old gentleman with rosy complexion and a distinguished white mustache, and he saw them drive off in a big black limousine operated by a uniformed Oriental chauffeur.

A block away he registered at a second-rate hotel and at 10 o'clock the next morning he was greeted warmly by the vice-president of a big oil company, an old college friend and fraternity brother, and when he left there he had a substantial check in his pocket. He sent off a telegram, bought new clothes and baggage, and moved into the Biltmore. The desk clerk handed him the telegram:

Very happy learning you have recovered health and think your suggestion of California holiday for Gloria and me is grand Stop leaving by overnight plane tonight Stop I was wrong about Foster account and signed contract six weeks ago Stop business good and you're needed here Love,

Laura

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Leather Socking Tales

Ted Kid Lewis' 'Shake' Felled Many a Ring Foe

By HYPE IGOE

TED KID LEWIS of England, one-time welterweight champion of the world, was a fellow who needed watching from the moment the first bell rang in any of his fights because it was a favorite trick of his to grasp the other fellow's right wrist when pretending to shake hands at the start.

Lewis, a hard puncher, usually tried to pull his man toward him and then hook a left to the jaw, quickly followed by a right to the same spot.

Lewis had this bit of treachery timed so nicely that the unsuspecting opponent generally lay sprawled on the flat of his back without anyone knowing what really had happened.

Jack Britton, one of the greatest of all ring generals, knew of Lewis' trick. He and the Englishman were the most famous rivals in all ring history. They fought 22 times in all, the world welter title as their goal, beginning their personal war in 1914 and fighting for the last time in 1920. In all that time, Britton, wise to Lewis' methods never so much as touched the end of Ted's gloves, so carefully was he always guarding against Ted's dangerous handshake.

JOE MANDOT was a victim of the wrist salutation. When he innocently extended his right hand for the time honored prebattle grip, always meant to be a gesture of fair play and sportsmanship, Lewis worked his wrist grasping trick and Mandot went down three times in the first round. He didn't remember being in a fight until the fifth round, Lewis getting the decision at the finish.

BRITTON DIDN'T SHAKE HANDS WITH LEWIS IN 22 FIGHTS. GOOD
NICE EVENING, JOCK
NAW-THEODORE YOU SAVE THAT HANDSHAKE FOR SOMEBODY ELSE

Benny Leonard might have been a victim of the coup had not Britton warned him of the trap. When Lewis put forward his gloved right hand to shake Leonard was ready for him.

"Let's save all our politeness until after the fight, Teddy. We'll start right off without shaking hands and attend to our social duties afterward," Benny told Lewis with a grin as Benny propped to his famous stance.

Jimmy Duffy wasn't so lucky. He met Lewis in Buffalo and, never having heard of Ted's loaded handshake, was knocked cold with the first punch. The moment Duffy extended his own right to meet Ted's innocent looking messenger of sportsmanship Duffy's wrist was in a vise, and he was yanked into a vicious left hook to the jaw which flattened him out on the canvas like a dead shad.

INSTANTLY the Buffalo arena was a milling inferno of fury. The crowd had caught Ted in the act. He had not engineered the pull-in with his usual slickness. The quick action of the police saved the Englishman from what might easily have been a savage mob mauling.

They met in the same ring some months later, and this time they answered the bell with a referee's mid-ring instruction before the bell to "Come out fighting without shaking hands." Duffy whipped Lewis that night as he might well have done in the first fight had he not placed so much trust in the Englishman's proffered hand.

Lewis walked right into his own trap one night in Boston with gargoyle-faced Mike O'Dowd springing the trigger. Britton liked Mike, and he didn't want to see his friend made a victim of the friendly looking sneak punch.

The Englishman had made up his mind that bold Mike would go out in a blinding flash as many had fallen before.

"MIKE, you've got to watch that English sparrow. Don't you go falling for his pretense at hand shaking. He has no intention of being a good sport. He'll knock your block back to St. Paul if you go for that hail-fellow-well-met stuff. DON'T REACH OUT TO SHAKE HANDS!"

I'LL GIVE YOUR TIP EVERY CONSIDERATION JACK
BRITTON WARNED O'DOWD
WHATEVER YOU DO MIKE, DON'T SHAKE HANDS WITH THAT ENGLISH SPARROW-HE'LL COP A SNEAK!

"Jack, my boy, I'll give your tip every consideration. I'll go to the sweet dreams at night figuring on a way to cross Lewis up," replied O'Dowd with a thoughtful stroke of his chin.

They met. The bell bonged and they advanced casually, Mike appearing the most unconcerned of all. Ted was grinning goodfellowship. Mike was watching Ted's right hand like a hawk. Slowly it went out for the customary pre-battle grip. Mike started his toward it as if to complete the clasp. Mike seemed about to take Ted's hand. In the bat of an eye, O'Dowd's open right glove was twisted into a cannon ball and it exploded like an aurora borealis on the Englishman's chin. He didn't go down but he was doing a wierd gazottski on his heels as he fought to avoid a knockout. Mike's first punch paved the way for a one-sided victory. Ted had been out-sneaked!

HARVARD'S SKIP STAHLEY BROWN FOOTBALL COACH

By WILL CONNELL

J. Neil "Skip" Stahley, first assistant to Dick Harlow at Harvard, today was named to succeed Tuss McLaughry as head football coach at Brown University.

Stahley, one of the most competent and one of the most personable members of the football teaching family in New England, came to Harvard with Harlow in 1935, and has been Dick's right-hand man ever since as varsity assistant and freshman coach.

A genial, round-faced, stocky citizen, popular with newsmen and Harvard players alike, Stahley was given consideration for the Brown job immediately after McLaughry resigned to succeed Earl Blaik at Dartmouth.

Blaik's sudden departure for West Point left Hanover officials in a difficult spot, but they made a 10-strike by signing McLaughry.

BROWN RECOVERS

Brown, like Dartmouth, was on a tough spot, when it suddenly lost one of the best grid professors in the land without much warning.

But, like Dartmouth, Brown has made a great recovery by signing a top flight man for the job.

The sole serious loser on the deal is Harvard and Harlow. Dick's aides, much sought after all over the East, have popped out of Cambridge like corn from Aunt Min's popper ever since the Crimson brought Dick from Western Maryland.

This year Harlow lost Wes Fesler, end and kicking coach, when the latter was named sports skipper at Wesleyan, and now he is minus his backfield coach. He'll need to be an iron man from here in.

STAHLEY EXPERIENCED

Stahley coached the Harvard freshmen in '35, worked with the varsity in '36, was boss of the yearlings the next three years and last fall moved up to the varsity backfield job. He always worked with the varsity before the frosh reported in the fall, and during the week prior to the Yale game.

As Brown Stahley is unlikely to find much in material, but that will be nothing new for a coach who helped make bricks without straw year after year on Soldiers Field.

Thurrier Out To Regain Lead

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 12 (AP)—"Lookout for Thurrier" is the cry haunting Springfield's opponents in the American Hockey League today. Fred is on the loose again after spending several weeks with the New York Americans and is determined to regain the circuit's scoring honors.

Thurrier tallied four points last week to bring his total to 41, nine less than Les Cunningham of Springfield, the leader. Cunningham and Glen Brydson, Thurrier's teammate, who is runner-up with 47 points, each registered twice, losing ground.

Notre Dame Grid Berth Still Open

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 12 (AP)—Notre Dame's board of athletic control meets again tonight to discuss a successor to Elmer Layden, who resigned as athletic director and head coach 10 days ago to become pro football commissioner.

This will be the board's third session to consider the vacancy, and probably will lead to a recommendation to the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, university president. Fr. O'Donnell has said the vacancy will be filled soon, probably not later than March 1.

7 N. Y. College Track Teams Tested Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Seven metropolitan colleges are to test their track teams against one another in a private indoor meet for the first time tonight and there's every indication that it will be a lot of fun.

In the first place, the winner automatically will become one of the favorites for the I. C. 4-A team title when the big meet is run off at Madison Square Garden March 1.

Then the coaches, who "sold" the idea to the colleges, are doing their best to make the meet interesting to the fans. The colleges put up $200 each to cover the expenses.

In addition, there's the fact that it will be held in the Bronx Coliseum, whose indoor track is supposed to be remarkably fast.

The feature of tonight's meet probably will be the mile duel between Les Mac Mitchell of New York U., winner of the Hunter mile at Boston last Saturday in 4:10.7, and Andy Neidnig of Manhattan, who consistently does around 4:15 and is the I. C. 4-A two-mile champion.

Sox Forced To Try Again On Rookie

By FRED LANE

The Red Sox officials have another headache.

Today Judge Landis ordered the Red Hose organization to give Pitcher Alex Mustaikis another chance to make good in the big leagues.

Seems Mustaikis, who was with the Red Sox from July 5 to Aug. 13, was sent to the Louisville club after a two-game tryout in which he won none and lost one. Later he was sent to the Hollywood club of the Coast League as part payment for Pitcher Bill Flemming, Coast star.

Mustaikis apparently didn't like the idea of playing minor league ball and figured he wasn't given sufficient chance to show his best in his short stay with the local club.

His argument was sustained by Landis and the Red Sox not only must take him to Sarasota training camp but must dig up another player suitable to the Hollywood club in order to complete the deal for Flemming.

In his few showings at Fenway Park, Mustaikis didn't have a prayer. He was voted "a cousin" by the opposition as his earned run average of 9.0 proves.

Regardless of all this, Eddie Collins will carry out the orders of Judge Landis and Mustaikis will cavort with the rest of the Sox squad until April 1 at which time the local club can do as it wishes with the big right-hander.

Bruins Ride on Top of League

By BILL GRIMES

Frankie Brimsek saw to it that the Bruins tied the New York Rangers' all-time defeatless record of 19 games by holding the Detroit Red Wings scoreless last night at the Boston Garden.

While Brimsek was kicking out every shot that the Red Wings fired at him, Woody Dumart, "Dit" Clapper, Eddie Wiseman and Roy Conacher beat Johnny Mowers for goals and the Bruins came up with a 4 to 0 victory, which moved them into first place of the N. H. L. race.

The game was marred by hooking, holding and wrestling. The Bruins put up a courageous fight to give the fans a run for their money. From start to finish, they were obliged to break through a five-man defense in order to get into Detroit territory. And, just as soon as they did get into the visitors' zonee, the Bruins were hooked and held by the Red Wings, many of whom draped themselves around any Rossmen within reach.

MOWERS STARS IN DEFEAT

One of the largest crowds of the season turned out for the game. Every seat was sold and the crowd was far more partisan than it has been in many of the previous games.

Although he was beaten for four goals, Johnny Mowers turned in a great performance in the Detroit nets. In fact, the work of the two goalies featured the game.

During the first and second periods, the checking was so close that the Bruins had few opportunities to score.

After five minutes, a scrimmage developed in front of the Detroit cage and for almost a minute the puck was loose between the skates of about eight players, without a Bruin being able to get his stick on it.

Terry Reardon made the first serious threat to score during the eighth minute. Mel Hill fired a shot from just inside the blue line and Terry dashed in and grabbed the rebound but Mowers made a beautiful save.

BEATEN BY HIGH SHOT

At 16:10 Milt Schmidt went down the left wing boards, and was carried around the cage and over to the players' gate. Just as he was hit a terrific body check, which drove him into the boards, by Jimmy Orlando, "Schmiddy" managed to center the puck.

Woody Dumart was in scoring position about 10 feet out from the Detroit net and slightly to

MILT SCHMIDT HIT BY 'CHARLIE HORSE'; MICKIE ION TOO LAX WITH HOLDING WINGS

The Sugar Bowl delegation, who were the guests of Pres. Weston Adams and Manager Art Ross got a great kick out of the game, which, for most of them was the first they'd ever seen. They were given an ovation by the crowd when they were introduced between the second and third periods by Eddie Cummings the Garden announcer . . . Howling Dan Howley, who is visiting his sister at East Weymouth, sat back of the Red Wings' bench. He has been a close and intimate friend of Jack Adams for many years . . . Incidentally, Dan Howley tried to interest local sportsmen in pro hockey years before C. F. Adams dreamed of becoming a hockey promoter. He had an N. H. A. franchise but couldn't get any backing

Frankie Cavelli, who made Mike Gilooly's All Scholastic eleven, saw the game with his brother Mike . . . Mickie Ion had one of his lazy nights. He called four penalties and should have called fifty . . . There was so much holding, hooking and wrestling that the game was ruined . . . The Bruins won 12 and tied seven while equalling the Rangers' record—Rangers won 14 and tied five.

The Toronto Maple Leafs and the Detroit Red Wings have cashed in handsomely on the winning streak of the Rossmen. The Rangers will get their bit tomorrow night in New York . . . Jimmy Orlando stepped into Terry Reardon early in the first period and Terrence was not himself for the rest of the game . . . That Orlando doesn't fool when he hands out body checks . . . Eddie Wares was bumped in the final chapter and tore a back muscle.

Milt Schmidt received a "Charley horse" in the middle stanza and Art Jackson centered for the Krauts for the remainder of the game . . . The Red Wings resorted to the Frank Leahy defense. They used a five-man line all evening . . . It looked like they were trying to keep the score down and wait for the breaks, which, incidentally, never came . . . You'll watch a lot of hockey before you see two better goal minders than Frankie Brimsek and Johnny Mowers . . . On their next visit to Detroit, the Bruins will play an afternoon game at the request of Jack Adams. Who, by the way, believes that his club has a real chance to grab the Stanley Cup.

Every seat in the Garden was sold for the game, but there were not enough standees to equal the attendance of the Bruin-Ranger game New Year's Eve . . . In the third period, Frankie Brimsek came well out of his cage to check Joe Fisher, who had outguessed the Boston rear guard . . . Mickie Ion was very lax about Red Wing players taking part in plays after breaking their sticks.

Joe Fisher kicked the puck out of a scrimmage after breaking his stick and Ebbie Goodfellow charged into Dit Clapper with only the handle of his stick in his possession . . . Bill Cowley, who was credited with two assists, is now only three away from Joe Primeau's all time record . . . With the puck at the opposite end of the rink Jack Stewart stepped into Eddie Wiseman in front of the Detroit net and he got away with it. Ion said that Wiseman skated into him, when Eddie protested.

Wilson Certain Cub Holdouts Will Show Up

CHICAGO, Feb. 12 (INS)—Jimmy Wilson, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, accepted philosophically today the fact that 16 Bruins still are holdouts, only two weeks from the date the squad is slated to begin training at Catalina Island.

"Why worry about them?" Wilson asked, when reporters queried him on the holdout situation. "They'll show up just as ballplayers always do."

Angel Favored to Pin Morgan

The Angel, champion of the world, rules a slight favorite to whip Big Ben Morgan, 320 pound Texas giant, when they meet in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling tournament tonight at the Boston Arena.

Many fans feel that Morgan may come through with a win, for his record shows that he has beaten the best men in the business. Rough and tough, he literally has pounded all his opponents to a pulp.

And while the fans are always rooting against a champion, hoping for the underdog to come through, it is likely that the majority would like to see Morgan receive some of his own medicine tonight.

The Angel is well qualified to give it to him, even though he will be outweighed by 70 pounds and give away about a foot in height. The man with the oversized head has practised long and dilligently on his "bear hug" and he feels sure that Morgan, as big as he is, will succumb to it.

16 Thoroughbreds Set In $50,000 Classic

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12 (AP)—Long weeks of careful training behind, 16 crack three-year-olds were due to parade to the post today in the seventh running of the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby—a battle that shaped up a wide open from flagfall to the finish of the mile and one-eighth rind.

The Derby scene was set. Turf club officials were promised a heavy day at the betting windows and sunshine through the afternoon after several days of rain. The 15 colts and lone filly in the Derby field faced a track ranging from muddy to heavy, and horsemen looked for another rousing renewal of this Santa Anita scramble of the three-year-olds.

PORTER'S CAP FAVORED

Everything was in complete order—except the minds and selections of 35,000 or more rabid racing fans and those masters of horse history, the handicappers.

Charles S. Howard's Porter's Cap remained the betting favorite in the morning line at odds of 5 to 2, and most everyone agreed that the man who sent two winners to the post in the famed $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, Seabiscuit and Kayak II, had the colt to capture this rich Derby prize.

Strong support came for four others, however—the filly, Nasca, owned by Breckenridge Long of Washington, D. C.; Tony Pelletteri's Bull Reigh; Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Good Turn, and Valdina Groom, under the colors of Emerson F. Woodward of Texas.

$1500 FEE

Long shot bettors held high hopes for such contenders as Cleaveland Putnam's Arlington Futurity winner, Swain; William E. Boeing's maiden, Welcome Pass; William Du Pont's Fairymant, another likely looking maiden, and Lawrence Barker's Pirate.

Rounding out the entries, and any one just as likely to score an upset as not, were Copperman and Staretor, entry of H. S. Nesbitt; Transfigure, Armistice, Buckhorn Creek, whose owner thought enough of him to plank out $1500 as a fee for a supplemental nomination; Havana Lad and Madigama.

SADDLED WINNER IN '37

Highly publicized Fairymant had raced but three times, but Trainer Dick Handlen saddled Rosemont to win the 1937 Santa Anita Handicap and Fairy Hill the $50,000 Derby the same year, and indicated he was out to score a second Derby win for the stable. Upsets have been the rule rather than the exception in this event.

Most of the contenders, including the top candidates, will be nominated for the Kentucky Derby, lending added interest to their performances in the Santa Anita race.

The Derby weight here is 120 pounds for colts and geldings, 115 for the filly. Post time for the race was 4:15 p. m. (PST).

Here is the field:

Horse	Jockey	Wgt.
a-Copperman	Corbett	120
Welcome Pass	Woolf	120
Fairymant	Peters	120
Transfigure	Longden	120

Ahearn Picks Porter's Cap

By BOB AHEARN

ARCADIA, Cal., Feb. 12—Your observer will have to string along with PORTER'S CAP in the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby today.

This three-year-old, sporting the silks of Charles (Seabiscuit) Howard, has done everything asked of him. He should also fancy the off track that will prevail.

Remainder of the spoils should be between Nasca, Swain, Transfigure and Good Turn.

Those who fancy runners at a price better keep their eyes peeled for Transfigure.

Weinberg, Hayes Top Card

A heavyweight slugfest which may rock the Boston Garden is scheduled tomorrow night when Johnny Hayes, Roxbury, squares off and starts winging 'em at Bill Weinberg, Chelsea.

This is one of the three 10-round features of Boston's first 1941 professional boxing show being presented by the Goodwin A. C. with Rip Valenti, who brought Joe Louis, Billy Conn and Henry Armstrong to Boston during 1940, at the helm.

Hayes and Weinberg are severe hitters, who recently fought a furious draw. Their bout may wind up in a k. o.

The other 10's involve Sal Bartolo, East Boston, vs. George Salamone, East Boston, and Abe Denner, West End, vs. Honey Mellody, Charlestown, former N. E. lightweight champion.

Choices in these will be slick Salvy, who has been belting over all opposition in New York, and Abe Denner, the tall tactician, who figures to have an edge over the veteran Mellody. Honey beat Denner in a previous bout but will have plenty of trouble repeating.

Highlight of two preliminary bouts will be the professional debut of Al "Red" Priest of Cambridge, former ruler of the amateur welterweight ranks hereabouts. Priest will clash with Al DeAngelis, rugged opposition for a debut. This is listed for four rounds.

Harold Harris of Malden meets Lefty LaChance of Lisbon, Me., in the other supporting bout, scheduled for six.

B. C. Trophies On Display

It's well past the football season, but you'd never know it on Washington st., near the R. H. White display window which features five trophies won by the national champion Boston College eleven this fall.

The display of trophies is being scanned by hundreds of passersby. The five trophies are:

The Gov. William C. Sproul Trophy, awarded to Boston College by the Veteran Athletics of Philadelphia.

The August V. Lambert Trophy, emblematic of the Eastern college football championship.

Victory Trophy, awarded to winner of annual Holy Cross-Boston College football game.

The Sugar Bowl Trophy, 1941—Auspices New Orleans Winter Sports Ass'n.

The W. Freland Kenorick Trophy —Won by Boston College, Eastern collegiate football champion.

GRETCHEN 4TH IN SKATING TITLE FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12 (AP)—Eugene Turner of Los Angeles, who taught himself to figure skate, was the top favorite today to become the first American to win the North American men's figure skating championship since 1923.

The 20-year-old Californian held a commanding lead of 31.2 points over his nearest rival, Ralph McCreath of the Toronto Skating Club, the Canadian men's title holder. Turner ran up 929 points yesterday and McCreath 897.8. Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg, Canadian women's champion, appeared to have cinched her second North American title to the women's competition. She scored 911.7 points.

Second was Nora McCarthy, former Canadian champion of the Toronto Skating Club, with 877.6; third was Eleanor O'Meara, Toronto, 875; fourth, Gretchen Merrill, Boston, 837.9.

Jane Vaughn, Philadelphia, who recently copped the U. S. national women's championship, held fifth place with 837.6 points, followed by 12-year-old Barbara Scott, Ottawa, 834.6; Charlotte Walther, New York, 825.8, and Romona Allen, 13, of Oakland, Cal., 817.1.

Last night's scoring was on school figures. The free skating will be held tonight for which the skaters will receive two-fifths of their total points. Pairs and four competition also will be run off tonight.

Standings of other competitors in the men's division were: Jack Vigeon, Toronto, 804.6, third; Arthur R. (Buddy) Vaughn, Philadelphia, 799.4, fourth; William R. Grimditch, Jr., Philadelphia, 777.6, fifth.

Pick MacMitchell To Break Mile Run

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (INS)—Many of us are prone to look to the wide open spaces of the West for the boys with speed, strength and stamina—those three cardinal virtues of the track athlete.

And it must be admitted the West has done pretty well with its Glenn Cunningham, Chuck Fenske, Walter Mehl, Lou Zamperini, Greg Rice, Don Lash and a host of other great athletes.

But Emil von Elling, the little man who has been coaching track at New York University for the last 27 years, ventures to suggest that the greatest runner of them all may have been developed right here on the hard sidewalks of New York.

He refers, of course, to Leslie MacMitchell, a junior at N. Y. U., who is the answer to a blonde's prayer—tall, dark and handsome.

SURE POINT WINNER

This 20-year-old miler is also the answer to a track coach's prayer for a sure point winner in any intercollegiate track meet.

"MacMitchell," said Von Elling today, "should develop into the greatest miler the world has ever seen. Barring accidents, he should not only become king of the milers but in the next five years he should wipe the present mile record off the books.

"This boy is a cinch to do 4:05 before he hangs up his shoes and there is a possibility that he may be the first to run that mythical 4-minute mile we hear so much about.

"He has never been beaten in a cross-country race either in high school or college, and he undoubtedly will wind up his college career as an undefeated champion.

"He has everything—brains, disposition, speed, stamina, endurance and courage. Until recently, he lacked just one other thing to make him a world-beater, and that was confidence. Now he has it.

"Les gained his confidence when he beat all the topnotchers in that 4:10.7 mile the other night. He learned in that race that he could follow anybody's pace and have enough left to come on and win. From now on, he knows, and his rivals know, that he must be reckoned with any time he starts."

PARALYZED AT SEVEN

MacMitchell suffered an attack of diphtheria when he was seven years old and the illness developed a paralysis in his left leg that forced him to learn to walk all over again.

That might have discouraged most youngsters but not this one. He not only learned to walk again but learned to run with a smooth even effortless stride that is a joy to Von Elling. And he learned it all on the crowded pavements of New York.

And that is why Von Elling is so confident that in MacMitchell he has a greater Cunningham in the making.

Skating Fans to See Sonja's Successor

By WALTER KILEY

On the basis of the mighty reception accorded Miss Megan Taylor of London in her first American ice carnival appearance at St. Paul last week, the attractive 20-year-old world's figure skating champion should win over Boston when she makes her Eastern inaugural in the Silver Skates Derby at Boston Garden next Sunday afternoon.

Miss Taylor who will headline the cast of exhibition skaters in the Silver Skates classic here not only proved a worthy successor to Sonja Henie in skating ability, but proved to be even a greater gate attraction.

Megan sold out the St. Paul Auditorium for three successive nights, as she made her American debut in the 1941 Ice Cavalcade held in connection with the annual St. Paul winter carnival.

Never before in the history of St. Paul had any show attracted as many people.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press said after the opening show:

"Ming Boreas Rex VII presented Miss Taylor with the title of "Baroness of the Blades" from his court on the arena as the English skating sensation concluded her brilliant dancing numbers.

"Miss Taylor who is coached by Phil Taylor, her father, the world's most renowned stilt skater, made her American debut a successful one with her grace, beauty, and all around skating dexterity. Whether it was free style skating or an interpretation of Grieg's 'To Spring,' Miss Taylor was every inch the champion the crowd expected her to be.

"In Grieg's masterpiece, the English girl made the ice melt, figuratively speaking, and she gave the audience the impression that she was the true personification of the beauitful season. spellbound."

Mr. Taylor will appear in Sunday's Silver Skates Derby as a co-star along with Megan. Both have fashioned special numbers for this glittering Boston carnival occasion.

Intercity Bouts On Garden Card

The Garden will be the scene of another intersectional boxing tournament Monday night when the Irish American A. A. brings simonpures from Cleveland and Philadelphia to swap punches with a local team.

This will be the last big intercity competition staged in Boston before the big A. A. U. National Championships at the Garden on March 31, April 1 and 2.

Bouts will be held in six classes of competition—126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and heavyweights.

There will be two boys in each class from Boston and one each from Cleveland and Philadelphia.

As a further feature attraction the directors of the Irish club are bringing back to Boston baby-face Lester McGowan from Buffalo, the high school boy who made such a tremendous hit here last month in winning the National All-America bantamweight championship.

KAWAL SAYS GOOD-BY TO B. U. TONIGHT

With the announcement of the new captain for 1941 and a host of other features, Boston University's sixth annual All Sports dinner at the Hayden Memorial Building tonight is expected to lure a capacity gathering of more than 800.

Never before has there been greater speculation over the coming leader and this is due largely to the fact that there are 12 juniors eligible. There are so many standouts that the squad was given the privilege of voting for co-captains or leaders to be appointed for every game if they did not wish to cast a ballot for any one individual.

The votes were then sealed without being tabulated and this may result in another hurried vote tonight. If no one of the three options is clearly in the majority, the squad will get together just before the dinner, decide what they want and vote accordingly.

But the captaincy is just one of many features. Judge Daniel T. O'Connell, toastmaster, will present an imposing array of speakers including Mayor Tobin, Tuss McLaughry, Neal O'Hara, Pat Hanley, Dr. John M. Harmon and another talented guest whose name will not be made public uniti he is introduced.

In addition to the speaking program football men will be awarded their insignias, leaders in other sports will be honored and an unscheduled speaker who is apt to be the hit of the night is Al Kawal.

Boston University's popular line coach who came here six years ago from Northwestern has made a great many friends in Boston and this will be his last appearance at the B. U. function before leaving for Michigan State where he takes over a new job next month.

B. C. ELECTS '41 FOOTBALL LEADER TODAY

Before sundown this afternoon Boston College will have its captain—or captains—for the 1941 football season.

Letter winners—to the number of 34—from the Sugar Bowl championship squad will participate in this afternoon's voting.

Unlike last season when the voting Eagles decided to depend upon the "captain-a-game" plan and elected Henry "The Hammer" Toczylowski to lead Boston College against traditional rival Holy Cross today's election is expected to produce a captain or co-captains (2).

Head Coach Frank Leahy was more than pleased with the result of the 1940 election. This year Leahy feels that a single captain or co-captains would be much more appropriate.

With the likes of Chester Gladchuk; Charlie O'Rourke; Joe Zabilski; Gene Goodreault, John Yauckhoes; Toczylowski; Alex Lukachik; Walt Dubzinski; Dave White and other letter winners eligible for election, picking a captain last year was really a problem. The Eagles showed rare judgment solving their difficulty. The past season's championship record proved that.

Today eleven junior letter winners are eligible to be elected to succeed Toczylowski and the other captains of last fall.

Leading candidates for the honor include Edward Zabilski (Providence, R. I.); Stephen Levanitis (Cambridge); Henry "Hank" Woronicz (Bridgewater); Alfred Morro (Providence, R. I.) and Francis "Monk" Maznicki (West Warwick, R. I.).

The following lettermen—14 seniors, 11 juniors and 9 sophomores—were to participate in the voting:

Gene Goodreault, Charles O'Rourke, Henry Toczylowski, George Kerr, Joe Menzo, Joe Zabilski, Chet Gladchuk, Alex Lukachik, Walter Dubzinski, Dave White, Frank Galvani, Tony Tassinari, John Yauckoes, Ted Williams, Lou Montgomery, Adolph Kissel, Leo Strumski, Justin McGowan, Frank Masnicki, Ed Zabilski, Henry Woronicz, Steve Levanitis, Al Morro Adolph Paziuk, Ralph Nash, Mickey Connolly, Bob Jauron, Carl Lucas, Joe Repko, Mike Holovak, Al Fiorentino, Fred Naumetz, Don Cuddivan and Rocco Canale.

LET'S SALUTE THE SKI PATROL!

Skiing is now being made a safe sport for all, thanks to the forming of a National Ski Patrol, as well as the maintaining of patrol units at ski areas throughout the country.

Seven must be a lucky number in skiing circles, for that is the number of members that now comprise the regular Cannon Mountain Ski Patrol, the first such organization of its kind in the entire United States.

The duties of these lads are manifold and diversified, to say the least. Injured skiers are given prompt first aid, splints are applied, and the victims are brought safely down the mountain on toboggans.

The boys constantly ski the trails in rotation, watching for accidents, or cautioning reckless runners. They also shovel snow over worn or icy spots, place danger flags at strategic places, and perform myriads of tasks that are helpful to all the recreational skiers.

Space doesn't permit us to tell here about the intricate telephone system on Cannon Mountain, enabling patrol men to immediately locate the scene of an accident, or of scores of other items that go towards making this ski patrol the best and most efficient in the land.

It was this writer's privilege this past week-end to spend half a day chatting and working with this gallant group atop Cannon Mountain, surrounded by a sea of peaks etched against sparkling blue skies.

The patrol leader, tall Ken Boothroyd, age 30, is the oldest and most experienced of the fellows.

Ken attended the U. of New Hampshire, where he starred in downhill, slalom, and cross-country racing. He started to work at the Tramway in March of 1938, the year it was built. Married, he lives in Franconia. His son, two and one-half years old, is going to start skiing next winter.

Ken takes justifiable pride in the fact that he laid out the top sections of both the Ravine and Cannon trails . . .

His knowledge of first aid is unlimited and his skiing background complete, for he formerly taught the art at Minnesota, as well as racing for the Silver Fox Outing Club.

Ken tells the tale of an injured skier found once on the famous Taft Trail by a patrolman. To reach him with speed, it was necessary to haul a toboggan up over the Saddle in deep snow and hard going. Shadows had merged with the night when the four men deposited the skier in a waiting ambulance at the foot of the mountain. And at the hospital, an X-ray revealed that there was nothing wrong with our friend, who smilingly arose and walked away under his own power!

However, the injured skier really had believed he was hurt, and, as Ken stressed, it is better to be over cautious some times rather than take any chances. Be don't shout "Wolf!"

After talking with the other lads on the patrol, we jotted down enough of the skiing highlights in their lives to give you these "Ski Portraits" of the six of them:

RAY DICKINSON (25) . . . Son of Paul Dickinson, who runs the well-known ski tow on Sugar Hill . . . A Dartmouth graduate, but does very little skiing! . . . He is, however, a great worker on reconditioning the trails . . . Helps with first aid . . . Shovels snow on trails in winter, and is particularly adept at riding a shovel all the way down the mountain! . . . He is slight of build but very strong and sturdy . . . Well-liked by all . . .

JAMES CYR (26) . . . No relation to Oscar . . . Went to Littleton High School . . . A self-taught skier, starting on barrel staves at the tender age of 5 . . . This is his third season at the Tram . . . Loves to run the trails, but does open slope traversing on his day off for variety . . . Always skis under control . . .

ROGER PEABODY (20) . . . Son of Roland Peabody, general manager of the Tram . . . Serving his first year on the patrol . . . The work gets him in real shape for racing . . . Class A racer since 1936 . . . Competed for the U. of N. H. in slalom and downhill . . Best achievement was last year when he placed second in the slalom at the Hochgebirge meet and fourth in the combined . . . Roger is going to try hard to win the USEASA slalom and downhill championships on Cannon Mt. next Saturday and Sunday!

JOHN KENNEDY, (24) . . . After escaping from Woodsville High, he graduated from New Hampton Prep in 1936 . . . Then went to U. of Illinois . . . Joined the ROTC and tried cavalry . . . Discovered that horses are unpredictable . . . Secured a job at Tram station . . . Learned to ski following rest of boys down the trails . . . Now in his first year as full-fledged patrolman.

DONALD FULTON (24) . . . Known to the boys as "Chucklin' Sam the Agitator" . . . He's assistant patrol leader . . . Worked here since opening in 1938 . . . A U. of N. H. alumnus . . . Another self-made skier . . . The first Christy he ever saw was executed by a Snow Trainer, and Don soon beat him . . . Lives in North Woodstock . . . A rugged runner.

DONALD JOHNSTON (24) . . . The silent flying Swede . . . Graduated from Bethlehem High . . . Has been on the patrol for two years . . . Discovered how to ski by coming down trail on the hickorys . . . A good all-around man . . . Most improved skier on the mountain.

One other member of the patrol we haven't mentioned is the mascot, "Spook," the cat. This uncanny feline adopted the boys herself, climbing alone two and one-half miles up the trail. She now follows the gang as much as possible, even riding on the toboggan.

All of the boys on the Cannon Mt. Ski Patrol are paid regular wages, which they earn! Each has one day off a week, but not Saturdays or Sundays. And on their days off, each member goes skiing!

SKI SHOTS

The visiting Chilean Ski team will give a night slalom exhibition under floodlights on the Mt. Eustis slope at Littleton, N. H., tonight, conditions permitting. After the seniors complete their runs, open slalom races for men and women will be held. Class C skiers, or those without any rating, are eligible.

A snowstorm of major importance is on the way, we hope! . . . Remember last Valentine's Day?

Bruins' Streak Equals Record

the left. And, he was uncovered. He intercepted the pass and beat Mowers with a high shot, for the first goal.

The Red Wings had a slight edge over the Bruins during the early minutes of the second period. They were in on Brimsek many times and finally Joe Fisher slipped around the Bruins' outer defense and set sail for Mr. Zero. Frankie sized up the situation in a flash and came out and threw a block on Fisher and the puck slid over into the corner. It was a very close call for Mr. Zero.

203D GOAL OF N. H. L. CAREER

At 13:40, Capt. Clapper just missed a goal during a three-man attack with Cowley and Conacher. He got the puck in front of the net but with two or three Wings holding him he was unable to get off a to push the disc and it hit the real shot. The best he could do was post and stayed out.

With only 30 seconds to go, Bill Cowley and Dit Clapper teamed up for the second goal which relieved the pressure for the evening. After getting the puck from "Cowboy Bill," Capt. Clapper went in, pulled Mowers out, and then back-handed the puck home for his 203d goal in the N. H. L.

There was no more scoring until Eddie Wiseman came up with a goal at 11:38 in the final chapter, following a three-man attack with Bill Hollett and Roy Conacher.

Then the game went along until there was but a half-minute to play before another tally was chalked up. This one was caged by Roy Conacher, who was aided and abetted by Eddie Wiseman and Bill Cowley.

BUDDY HASSETT WASTES LITTLE TIME SIGNING

There wasn't a great deal doing at either ball park yesterday other than that Bobby Quinn announced that he had received the signed contracts of Buddy Gremp and Clarence Bray, a couple of rookies.

Gremp came up from New York, of the Bi-State League late last season, and played a few games for the Bees. Until he injured his arm a couple of years ago, Gremp was in the St. Louis Chain Gang. He was picked up by the Bees and sent to York, where he played first base.

Gremp is said to be a fine catcher and in all probability he'll be given an opportunity to show what he can do behind the plate during the training season at San Antonio. He's a very quiet kid, but according to Rudy Hulswit, who managed the York club, he's a fine hitter, with considerable power.

HASSETT MUST FIGHT

Clarence Bray was to have joined the Bees late last season, but had to undergo a minor operation and didn't report. Bray is a centerfielder and a ball hawk. In the Three Eye League he was a fine hitter and Bob Coleman believes that the boy has a chance in the National League.

Buddy Hassett returned his signed contract in record time. Buddy had a tough season a year ago and he has a fight on his hands to get a regular berth, for Manager Stengel intends to open up with big Max West on first base. If he recovers his batting eye Buddy may be tried in the outfield.

STILL WAITING FOR TEDDY

Over at Fenway Park the big news was that Mrs. Joe Cronin and Tommy are on their way to Sarasota, where they'll be joined by the Red Sox manager within a few days.

Now that Jimmy Foxx has agreed to terms, the Red Sox are assured of their ace power hitter.

Tub Thumper Eddie Doherty is still looking for Ted Williams' contract. Nothing has been heard from the slugging outfielder, and Teddy may be tough to sign unless Tom Yawkey takes over his case. Bobby Doerr and Tex Hughson are still outside the fold.

Canadiens Bring Up Peggy O'Neil, Ex Bruin

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 12 (AP)—The New Haven Eagles of the American Hockey League announced today a two-for-two player exchange with the Montreal Canadiens of the National League. George Mantha and "Peggy" O'Neil going to Montreal and Alex Singbush and Lou Trudel coming here.

Escapade Leading In Ocean Yacht Race

ABOARD COAST GUARD CUTTER MOJAVE, Feb. 12 (AP)—The 72-foot Escapade was leading the way in the Miami-Nassau yacht race early today after one boat was forced out.

A broken spar made it necessary for the crew of W. R. Bryant's Malihini, of Detroit, to turn back toward the start.

The Escapade—entered by Henry Fownes of Stamford, Ct.—rounded Isaac light at midnight.

Rainy weather prevailed and there was a 15-mile wind.

Seven other contestants trailed the Escapade at varying distances.

IMPROVED ROVERS CLASH WITH PICS HERE TONIGHT

By SAM BROGNA

A vastly improved New York Rovers' sextet moves into the Garden tonight to oppose the Boston Olympics in a mid-week Eastern Amateur Hockey League contest.

These Rovers who have had more than their share of trouble throughout the season is trying to clear themselves out of the cellar, will present their strongest aggregation yet to have appeared here in the Hub.

Coach Alex Smith of the Gotham team has tried desperately during the past month to find a winning combination, with little success. But now he is quite positive that he has finally succeeded. His reason for belief is the way his boys went through their last two games with the River Vale Skeeters and Washington Eagles, winning both games handily.

LOCAL BOY WITH ROVERS

With the New York team tonight will be youthful Bill Robinson, a former Arlington high school, Boston University and Junior Olympic puckster. Although Bill has been wearing the spangles of the big city team for the past three weeks, it will make his first appearance at the Garden.

Robinson will play one of the defense positions.

The Rovers may be in the throes of their best win streak but they will have to go some to top the Olympics tonight. For Coach Hago Harrington's outfit is in the midst of their own undefeated string, having already gone through their last five games without a setback.

FITZ ON SHELF

Then, too, they are eyeing third place in the Boardwalk Cup standing. A win over the Rovers will put them one point behind Atlantic City. And with one more game remaining of this cup series, they will just about be in.

With the exception of Johnny Fitzgerald, the Olympics will have all their vaunted strength ready for the N. Y. team. Fitzy is still bothered with a charlie horse and will miss his second straight game. His place will again be taken by Junie Stubbs.

Huskies, Jumbos Duel on Track

Northeastern and Tufts, fast developing their athletic rivalry, will stage one of the best dual meets of the New England season on Saturday at Tufts. The Huskies are eager to atone for the defeat suffered last year at Medford.

Although Tufts has a strong foundation in the versatile Ed Dugger and Walter Hall, the Huskies have a few standouts of their own. The Carroll twins, Bill and Bob, head the Northeastern array.

Bob Carroll has done 1:15 for the 600 and 2:21.4 for the 1000. Brother Bill has done 2:22.4 for the 1000 and 4:24 for the mile.

Capt. Jake Wiren heads the field event men. He has heaved the 16-pound shot 46 feet 7 inches in his best performaaance. Charlie Knowles also is a 40 footer.

In the high-jump the Huskies have three men who have done 5.10 in competition—John Martis, Joe Lavin, and Ralph Huey. In the pole vault, Bob Tarbell and Ben Berry have done 11.6.

Aside from the dual meet victory over Bates and a triumph for Bill Carroll in the New England thousand yard champions, the Huskies have concentrated on relay racing this winter. The two mile team is the best in New England.

In its opening race, it beat Yale. Holy Cross, and Boston College and last week in the B. A. A. Meet, although it finished third, it had the satisfaction of having beaten Manhattan by half a lap.

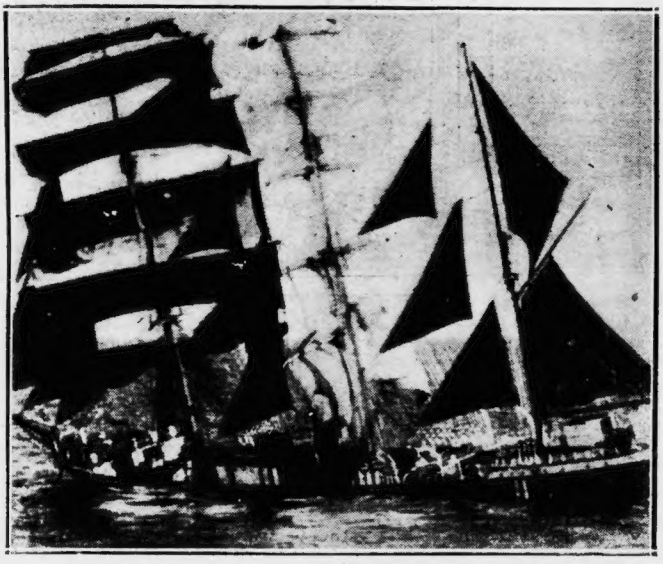
Ghastly—Snow in London adds a final touch of ghastliness to these skeleton-like ruins of bomb-blasted buildings, a victim of a recent attack by Nazi raiders. A city worker probes the ruins for valuables.



Bark Lists After Nazi Bombs Score

End Came From Above—Two dramatic pictures record the sad fate that befell a sailing ship, described by German censors as an enemy bark, after an encounter with a Nazi bombing plane "somewhere at sea." Above, the vessel lists rapidly . . . while below, it settles beneath the waves.
